

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Gentlemen of the Assembly:—For the honor which I have this day received from you, I extend my most heartfelt thanks.

In the fulfillment of my duties of speaker of this assembly, I shall many times be obliged to ask, and I trust to receive, the kindest indulgence at your hands; and I ask this, both on account of my inexperience and the desire that is within me to do equal and exact justice to all. Under no condition, driven by no stress of circumstances, will I depart from that strict impartiality which should characterize all the acts and decisions of a presiding officer.

And at the opening of this session permit me to say that when we became members of this legislature, we undertook to give, and the people of this state have the right to expect from us, a strict but not niggardly economy in the administration of all the affairs of state that may come before us. We undertook to give, and the people of this state have a right to expect, the same painstaking care, the same scrupulous honor, that we would give to our own private and most important affairs, so that when our work is done, and garnered into that mighty sheaf of the years, that shall never be unbound, it may remain an enduring monument of the utmost fidelity and the highest integrity, honorable alike to ourselves and the state; and further, as harmony is the strength of all institutions, may harmony be the cloud by day and the star by night that shall guide us in all our deliberations.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

Executive Department,

MADISON, January 12, 1882.

To the honorable the assembly:

I have the honor to transmit herewith my annual message for the year 1882, in writing.

J. M. RUSK.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

To the Senate and Assembly:

Selected by the people of Wisconsin as their chief executive, I have the honor, in obedience to the requirements of the constitution, of submitting to you my first annual message. I am deeply impressed with the responsibilities of the position to which I have been chosen, occupied as it has been by so many distinguished gentlemen, including my immediate predecessor, who has administered the affairs of state with marked ability and to the satisfaction of the people.

The past year has been one of unparalleled prosperity to the nation. United once more in the bonds of peace and harmony, with all sectional strife abated, the country has made gigantic strides ahead. Our nation has been blessed with health, with abundant harvests, and a greater degree of prosperity than in any former year; and had it not been for the shock of the assassination of our lamented President, the year would have been one of the most successful and happy of our national life.

I cannot refrain from speaking in this connection a few words in relation to our late beloved President, James A. Garfield — a man of broad intellect, a noble heart, a kind and generous spirit — he was pre-eminently a leader among leaders. Succeeding by his own efforts in raising himself from poverty to the highest position in the gift of the people, he had commenced a career which promised to bear full fruition of the hopes of his countrymen, when he was prostrated by the bullet of an assassin. Beloved by the people and mourned by the whole civilized world, his memory will live forever.

The present chief magistrate, President Chester A. Arthur, called to the position under these most sorrowful circumstances, has, by his wise administration of governmental affairs, merited the confidence of the country.

Wisconsin has shared in the general prosperity of the year. Our harvests have yielded good returns and our products have found ready markets at good prices.

Agriculture, our greatest industry, has been well rewarded, and the financial condition of this class, who contribute so much to the growth and wealth of our state, has been materially improved. Capital seeks investment at a much reduced rate of interest; our manufacturing industries have steadily and permanently increased, and many other enterprises and resources have been developed during the year.

The laws have been faithfully and efficiently executed, and peace and tranquility have prevailed throughout the state during the year with as few exceptions as is usual.

Without further delay I proceed to a more detailed statement of the condition and affairs of the state.

The secretary of state makes the following estimate of the expenditures to be defrayed from the treasury during the year beginning January 1, 1883 :

Expenditures.

Salaries and permanent appropriations.....	$227,730 50
Legislative expenses	95,750 00
Interest on state indebtedness.....	164,588 86
Charitable and penal institutions	285,000 00
Clerks and employes.....	62,000 00
Miscellaneous	262,000 00
Total expenditures.....	$1,047,068 86

Revenues.

Licenses and fees	$562,700 00
Taxes authorized by law	234,368 86
Total revenues.....	$797,068 86

This estimate shows that it will be necessary for this legislature to provide the sum of $250,000, and I would recommend that the amount is reasonable and proper.

CONTINGENT FUND.

The balance to the credit of the Governor's contingent fund on January 1, 1882, was $610.06, and the expenditures from this fund during the year were $1,313.48. In view of the condition of this fund at the present time and the possible demands upon it the present year, I recommend that the sum of two thousand dollars be appropriated thereto at this session.

CHARITABLE AND PENAL INSTITUTIONS.

At the last session of the legislature, a law was passed abolishing the several boards having control of the different state institutions, and substituting therefor a single board of five members, designated as the "State Board of Supervision." In conformity to that law, my predecessor appointed as such board, George W. Burchard, James Bintliff, Charles Luling, Lewis A. Proctor and Charles D. Parker. This Board entered upon the discharge of its duties on the 7th day of June, 1881. Its first annual report covers a period from that date to December 1, 1881, by which it appears that the expenses of the institutions have been greatly reduced, without impairing the efficiency of the institutions.

The amounts turned over to the Board of Supervision on their assuming control, for the several institutions, were as follows:

For State Hospital for Insane	$41,099 71
For Northern Hospital for Insane	45,448 04
For Industrial School for Boys.....	19,242 86
For Institute for Education of Blind	14,312 76
For Institute for Deaf and Dumb	12,011 24

For detailed information relative to the management and financial condition of each of the institutions, you are respectfully referred to the first report of the Board of Supervision, which will be before you in printed form. From a statement furnished by the president of said board, it is found that a deficit exists in the current expense funds of the several institutions under their control, aggregating $55,944.82, divided among different institutions as follows:

State Hospital for Insane, January 1, 1882.....	$22,605 52
Northern Hospital for Insane, January 1, 1882	11,958 48
Institute for Deaf and Dumb, March 31, 1882.....	11,885 82
State Prison, March 31, 1882.....	10,000 00
Total.....	$55,944 82

In these items are included the amounts probably necessary to meet demands to the close of the appropriation year, March 31, for the Institute for Deaf and Dumb and State Prison, and to pay for a cargo of coal not yet delivered to the Northern Hospital for Insane. I would recommend that appropriations to cover these deficits be made as early in your session as practicable.

The board makes a detailed statement of their estimates for the current expenses of the several institutions under their charge, for the next year, and which shows that there is to be supplied by appropriation for the several institutions, as follows :

For State Hospital for Insane	$43,019 72
For Northern Hospital for Insane	51,968 83
For Industrial School for Boys.....	82,987 97
For Institution for Education of Deaf and Dumb	84,600 00
For Institution for Education of Blind	17,850 00
For State Prison.. ..	15,000 00

STATE BOARD OF CHARITIES AND REFORM.

The powers of this board now embrace a general supervision over all the charitable, penal and reformatory institutions in Wisconsin, both public and private, except the six state institutions. The legislature of last winter took away from this board their general supervision over the state institutions, and gave them increased work in some other directions, the chief of which is in relation to the care of the chronic insane by counties under chapter 233 of the Laws of 1881. Under this law the board has power to control the treatment by counties of their chronic insane, by regulating the distribution of the state appropriation, and by their power to take the insane away from counties where they are not properly cared for.

The report of the board will contain many details of interest relating to the management of the institutions under their care. The board ask that the general power of visiting and reporting upon the six state institutions be restored to them.

CHRONIC INSANE.

I desire to call your attention to the large increase in the number of incurable insane. These unfortunate beings should command our warmest sympathy, and humanity demands that adequate provision be made for their wants. Our insane asylums have been obliged to return many of this unfortunate class to the counties whence they came to make room for other patients; and the county authorities being unable to suitably provide for them, are obliged to keep them in the poor-houses and jails. The subject of at once providing for this class so they can receive proper care and treatment should engage your earliest and most careful attention.

EDUCATION.

I am pleased to be able to say to you that the educational interests of the state are quietly but steadily progressing, and although the percentage of attendance is somewhat less than for the last year, yet the public schools are in a very satisfactory condition. The attendance has not been so large for the past year on account of the unfavorable weather and the prevalency of contagious diseases in very many localities. The percentage of attendance of children at all the schools of the state for the year 1879 was 66.97; for the year 1880, 69.04; and for the year 1881, 65.2. The number of children of school age in the state in 1880 was 483,229, and in 1881 was 489,142, an increase of 5,913. The total valuation of school property in the state, being the school houses, school house sites, apparatus and libraries, is $5,543,049.61. The total amount expended for school purposes in the state during the year was $2,302,038.34, or $6.97 for each person attending school. The amount expended for each pupil in 1880 was $7.24, and in 1879 was $7.44.

The number of appeals before the superintendent have been less than last year and is a gratifying indication of that humane and friendly spirit of the people which ensures a good government.

The common schools of this state are surpassed by the schools of but very few states in the Union, and this good condition is, in a great measure, due to the commendable and able manner in which the superintendents of public instruction and their assistants have for many years performed their arduous and important duties. Every superintendent of public instruction for many years has recommended that the adoption of the township system of school government be made compulsory.

FINES AND PENALTIES.

Section 2 of article X of our state constitution provides, among other things, that "the clear proceeds of all fines collected in the several counties for any breach of the penal laws shall be set apart as a separate fund to be called a school fund," and section 715 of the revised statutes prescribes the manner of carrying this constitutional provision into effect.

The county treasurers of many of the larger and more populous counties, for a period of nearly twenty years, had neglected to obey said provision of the constitution and the laws enacted to carry it out. The attorney-general during the past year brought suit in the supreme court against one of these delinquent county treasurers to recover the fines collected during the year 1880. That court on the fourth of June last filed its unanimous opinion sustaining the law above cited, and required such treasurer to pay. Since that decision, most of the counties have paid to the state treasurer the fines collected during the year 1880. The amount so paid to January 1, 1882, is $11,583.07, being more than had been collected from the same source for the ten years preceding. It is estimated that there is due from the several counties for the years in which they have neglected to obey the law the sum of $100,000.

Your attention is invited to this subject with a view to ascertain if any legislation is necessary to insure an equitable legal adjustment thereof.

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN.

The several reports of the president and secretary of the Board of Regents, and the president of the university show that the institution is in a thriving and commendable condition. It is now an institution of which the state should be proud, made so by a generous donation of lands granted by congress, by occasional aid of the legislature, by the philanthropic munificence of Governor Washburn, and the provident care and management of the presidents and faculty. The location of the university is more healthful and advantageous than that of any other institution of the kind in the West, and by a liberal and generous policy on the part of the legislature, such as the people of the state would be proud, in after times, to have bestowed, it may be made the most serviceable and distinguished educational institution in the West.

I suggest that you make yourselves familiar with this institution, and know its wants and heed them with such provident liberality, that it will soon advance to that meritorious rank so justly coveted.

EXPERIMENTS IN AMBER CANE.

In accordance with chapter 211 of the General Laws of 1881, Prof. W. A. Henry has made experiments in Amber cane and the ensilage of fodders, and has made a full and complete report thereof to me. In his report Prof. Henry estimates that syrup can be made at the rate of 180 gallons per acre; and when sugar is worked for, it can be had at the rate of not less than 1,000 pounds per acre of raw sugar, besides 80 gallons of molasses. The analysis of the chemist shows that there is over 2,000 pounds of sugar in an acre of cane and that half is lost by the present imperfect methods of working. The report of Prof. Henry shows that he has expended $3,080.07 of the appropriation, and that there remains the sum of $919.93 unexpended. The raising of cane is becoming one of the important agricultural products of the state, and in my judgment should be encouraged; and in view of the satisfactory results reached by the experiments made, and in view of their undoubted benefit to the many producers of cane, I would recommend the continuance of such an appropriation for this purpose as in your wisdom would seem best; and as there is no provision for printing his report, I would recommend that a sufficient appropriation be made for its proper printing and distribution.

STATE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The State Historical Society has been ably managed. From a very small beginning, it has grown to be a large institution of peculiar interest to the people of the state. It is regarded as one of the most complete collections of its class in the United States, and is worthy of the fostering care of the state. I would recommend to the legislature that they provide a suitable building for the use of the society, separate from the capitol. Its present quarters are entirely inadequate to its wants, and the rooms it now occupies are needed for the convenience of the legislature. In such a building suitable room should be provided for the Wisconsin Academy of Sciences, Arts and Letters.

STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The gentlemen composing the board are among the most eminent in their profession in the state, and I would recommend that the legislature extend to them a generous encouragement. Their labors have resulted in great benefit to the health of our people, and there can be no doubt that greater benefits may in the future be expected. Their suggestions for the restriction and prevention of contagious diseases have been widely circulated throughout the state, and have been adopted by a large class of our citizens, and their wisdom fully proven. The board has succeeded in securing reports from about nine hundred different localities in the state, and have awakened a deep feeling among the people upon the subject of the suppression of disease. Their suggestions for securing for schools, prisons and public buildings proper hygiene, have been adopted in many localities with good results. In my opinion, their services to the state cannot be dispensed with, and too much care cannot be taken to protect the lives and health of the people.

RAILROADS.

The total mileage of the railroads of the state, as reported to the Railroad Commissioner on the 30th day of June, 1881, was 3,142.43 miles, at a cost, including equipments, of $129,641,419.87, being an average of $41,258.04 per mile.

The total earnings of the railroads of the state for the year ending June 30, 1881, were $15,478,172.61, being an average of $4,814.91 per mile of operated road. The operating expenses were $9,085,437.08, being $2,826.28 per mile; the excess of earnings over operating expenses was $6,392,735.53, or $1,988.63 per mile. The passenger earnings on all of the roads in the state were $3,527,478.89, and the freight earnings $10,979,446.81. The whole number of passengers carried during the year in the state was 2,966,965, or an equivalent of 119,599,855 passengers carried one mile. The whole number of tons of freight carried was 5,407,297, or an equivalent of the carriage of 657,499,156 tons one mile. The average rate of all freights carried in the state during the year was 1.68 cents per ton per mile.

The total number of miles of road built in the state during the year ending December 31, 1881, was 300 against 238 $\frac{2}{10}$ miles for the year 1880. The total mileage of the railroads of the state on the first day of January, 1882, was 3,433.88 miles. The present indications are that a much larger amount of road will be built in 1882 than was built in 1881, unless some unlooked for financial revulsion shall cut short work already under contemplation.

The commissioner reports the gratifying fact that not a single passenger has been killed upon the railroads of Wisconsin during the year, with very few casualties of any nature to the traveling public. This shows a commendable care for the protection of human life, on the part of the management, and of those having charge of the running of trains.

No brief summary of the report of the commissioner can do it justice or present in proper form the interesting statistics and the valuable information therein given. The questions discussed and the suggestions made in regard to changes in the laws should be studied, and any defects in the existing law should be remedied by appropriate legislation. The report will be laid before you in a few days, and I commend to your special consideration those portions of the report referring to: "Reports to State Treasurer and Commissioner," "License Fees of Railroads," and "Discriminations," and trust that in your wisdom you will be enabled to perfect all the laws relating to the working of the railroad department, in the interest of justice, and an equal distribution of the burdens and the gains upon the producer and the carrier alike.

The province of the state through its legislature, to pass such laws in regard to transportation as shall be deemed for the interests of all the people, has become a settled fact, through the decision of the highest tribunal of the land; and is accepted as wise policy by the great corporations themselves. It becomes, therefore, the highest duty of the legislature to give due thought to all railroad legislation, and to act with such wisdom, that while it shall not be unduly rigorous in the restrictions it imposes by law, it should not for a moment forget any proper and healthful protection to the producing classes, but give to the whole people such enactments as shall bestow justice and equality of rights with an impartial hand. And in the furtherance and perfection of this principle of regulation, I do not think it unreasonable to hope that the time is not far distant when the interstate commerce of the country will be regulated by national statute in such an harmonious adjustment as will meet the requirements of the producing and consuming portion of society.

INSURANCE.

The department of insurance continues to be of great service to the people of the state in the protection afforded them against fraudulent insurance, which has become a serious grievance in many states. The commissioner's certificate of authority to a company has come to be regarded as almost a guaranty of its soundness. To his recommendations I invite your attention as worthy of consideration.

FISH CULTURE.

Under the management of the State Board of Fish Commissioners, the artificial propagation of fish is no longer an experiment, and by means thereof our streams and lakes are annually becoming better stocked with fish to which these waters are adapted. There is no room to doubt the desirability of continuing the commission. For the current year an appropriation of $8,000 is asked.

During the past year there have been distributed from the hatcheries as follows :

Brook trout.....	3,058,000
Carp	162

There are eggs now in hatching process as follows :

Brook trout	1,500,000
Lake trout.....	4,000,000
White fish.....	5,500,000

The money at the command of the commission for the year was, including $7,000 appropriation by the legislature, $9,244.60. The expenditures, including $500.00 outstanding indebtedness on January 1st, amounted to $8,639.67, leaving a net balance in their hands at that date of $604.93.

IMMIGRATION.

The Board of Immigration have expended, as will appear by their report, during the year 1881, $5,514.41, and that 47,956 immigrants have arrived in Milwaukee during the year, and that 53.7 per cent. of them remained and settled in this state ; whereas in 1880 the percentage of those settling in this state was only 40.04, and in 1879 was only 37.7 ; and that there were 8,564 who arrived in Chicago and made Wisconsin their home, but did not pass through Milwaukee. Of the whole number of immigrants arriving at Milwaukee, 25,769 were destined for Wisconsin, and of which 14,119 were from Germany, 3,510 from Norway, 1,558 from Sweden, 1,030 from Denmark, 121 from England, 173 from Ireland, 16 from Scotland, 28 from France, 237 from Holland, 981 from Bohemia, 3,224 from Poland, and 262 from other countries.

The work of the board has been very beneficial to the state, and the immigrants have been of the best agricultural and industrial classes, and have made material additions to our capital and wealth.

THE WISCONSIN NATIONAL GUARD.

The military organization of the state is in a very creditable condition of efficiency. The increased aid given to the companies by recent legislation has resulted in a marked improvement in the service, and has fully vindicated the wisdom of the appropriation. The report of the adjutant general shows a force of thirty-two companies of infantry and two of cavalry now organized, numbering 115 officers and 2,318 enlisted men, a total of 2,433. Four battalions are now organized. The companies, with the exception of two recently formed, are fully uniformed and armed with the best arms in use. Although our militia consists of but a small organization, and expenditures for its support are comparatively light, yet for efficiency and discipline, convenience of location for speedy concentration, advance of instruction and excellence of material, it is second to none in the Northwest. To maintain it in the highest attainable state of effectiveness is an object worthy your consideration.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The report of the managers of the Industrial School for Girls has been received, and I transmit the same to the legislature. There is no provision by law for the printing of this report by the commissioners, and provision should be made therefor. The expenditures made from the appropriations of the last legislature are $4,927.12; these were made for special purposes designated by the law, and were mostly for permanent improvements.

The management of this institution is under the special care of a board of lady managers, and their work a very important and difficult one.

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENT.

The people at the late election having ratified the constitutional amendment providing biennial sessions of the legislature, and the same having become a part of the constitution, I therefore recommend the passage of the second amendment, now pending, and its submission to the people, in order that our elections may be uniform and less frequent.

THE CENSUS.

The population of the state, as shown by the United States census of 1880, is 1,315,480, an increase of 24.6 per cent. since 1870.

APPORTIONMENT.

I call your attention to the apportionment of the state into senate and assembly districts, and also into congressional districts when congress shall have passed the necessary legislation. In doing this, you should take into consideration the population, community of interests, and compactness of territory, so far as it can be done, without special regard to the political sentiment of the various localities.

PORTRAIT OF HON. M. H. CARPENTER.

In accordance with Joint Resolution No. 51, Assembly, passed by the last legislature, the governor has procured a crayon portrait of the late Senator M. H. Carpenter, made by Mr. W. H. McEntee, and has caused the same to be placed in the rooms of the State Historical Society. The amount expended therefor was $308, paid by the governor out of the contingent fund. The work is commended as one of much skill, and is a most fitting tribute to the esteem of Wisconsin's most gifted orator.

CONCLUSION.

I have thus briefly called your attention to such matters as seem, in my judgment, to be for the welfare of the state. The people expect economy in expenditures, and will hold all public officers to a strict accountability for all of their transactions. With grateful hearts to the Supreme Ruler of the universe for all the blessings we enjoy, and a firm reliance upon Him for our future guidance, let us proceed to the discharge of the duties imposed upon us by the constitution and the laws.

D. 1881, amendments to the constitution of this state were proposed and agreed to by said legislature, a majority of the members elected to each house thereof voting in favor thereof, proposed amendments were in the language following, viz.:

Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That section 4 of article 6 of the constitution of the state of Wisconsin be so amended as to read as follows:

Section 4. Sheriffs, coroners, registers of deeds, district attorneys, and all other county officers, except judicial officers, shall be chosen by the electors of the respective counties, once in every two years. Sheriffs shall hold no other office and be ineligible for two years next succeeding the termination of their offices; they may be required by law to renew their security from time to time, and in default of giving such new security their office shall be deemed vacant; but the county shall never be made responsible for the acts of the sheriff. The governor may remove any officer in this section mentioned, giving to such a copy of the charges against him and an opportunity of being heard in his defense. All vacancies shall be filled by appointment, and the person appointed to fill a vacancy shall hold only for the unexpired portion of the term to which he shall be appointed and until his successor shall be elected and qualified.

That section 12, article 7, of said constitution, be so amended as to read as follows: Section 12. There shall be a clerk of the circuit court chosen in each county organized for judicial purposes, by the qualified electors thereof, who shall hold his office for two years, subject to removal as shall be provided by law. In case of a vacancy, the judge of the circuit court shall have power to appoint a clerk until the vacancy shall be filled by an election. The clerk thus elected or appointed shall give such security as the legislature may require. The supreme court shall appoint its own clerk, and a clerk of the circuit court may be appointed a clerk of the supreme court.

That section 1, article 13, of said constitution be so amended as to read as follows: Section 1. The political year for the state of Wisconsin shall commence on the first Monday in January in each year, and the general election shall be holden on the Tuesday next succeeding the first Monday in November. The first general election for all state and county officers, except judicial officers, after the adoption of this amendment, shall be holden in the year A. D. 1884, and thereafter the general election shall be held biennially. All state, county, or other officers, elected at the general election in the year 1881, and whose term of office would otherwise expire on the first Monday of January in the year 1884, shall hold and continue in such offices respectively, until the first Monday in January in the year 1885; therefore,

NUMBER, ETC., OF IMMIGRANTS ARRIVED DURING THE YEAR 1881.

The reports of the agents employed by the board show that 47,956 immigrants arrived in Milwaukee, and 8,564 in Chicago, who made Wisconsin their home, but did not come to Milwaukee. To this number several thousands should be added, who landed at lake ports in this state other than Milwaukee, no record of whom is kept. Besides, as the time for gathering the information concerning immigrants passing through the city is very limited, there is no doubt but the reports of the agents falls short of the full number of arrivals.

The tables below show the number and nationality of the immigrants who came to Milwaukee during the year 1881, also the number and nationality of immigrants who came to Chicago, and thence directly into this state, without coming to Milwaukee:

That the labors of the board have not been in vain will be apparent from the following comparative tables, which give the number, etc., of immigrants arrived in this city in each year since the organization of the board:

It will thus be seen that while in 1879 64.3 per cent. of the immigrants went to other states, and only 35.7 per cent. remained in Wisconsin, in 1880 59.6 per cent. made other states and 40.04 per cent. Wisconsin their home, and in 1881 46.3 per cent. settled in other states and 53.7 in Wisconsin.

That the larger portion of the German immigrants were persons of means and belonged to the better class of the German people, is confirmed by the statements sent by our consuls to the department of state at Washington, one of which is published elsewhere in this report; and what is here said of the German immigrants, can also be applied to those of other nationalities.

Every possible care has been exercised by this board to protect immigrants arriving in the city of Milwaukee. In one case where complaint of an overcharge by an expressman was made, he was fined and his license revoked by the mayor.

Relief has been granted to needy immigrants to the amount of $16 00.

Thousands of immigrants were assisted in changing baggage checks, and in numerous cases baggage lost was recovered through the efforts of the board.

One thousand one hundred and ninety-two letters and ninety-four postal cards were received during the year, and one thousand two hundred and forty-three letters and two hundred and seven postal cards mailed.

PRINTING AND DISTRIBUTION OF PAMPHLETS AND POCKET-MAPS.

As the principal means of spreading information concerning the resources of the state in Europe, the board has continued to publish pamphlets and pocket-maps in the English, German and Scandinavian languages. On application of the respective parties, 5,000 maps of the state have been furnished, each, to Major Jones, United States Consul at Newcastle-on-the-Tyne, for insertion in the "Emigrants' Friend," and to the publisher of the "Ott's Handbuch fuer Auswanderer," for the same purpose.

The following pamphlets have been printed during the year:

Of the edition of 1879:		Copies.
English	500
German	1,000
Norwegian	500
Swedish	500
Total	2,500
Of the revised edition of 1881:

*Norwegian	4,000
Swedish	4,000
	<hr/>	21,000

*In press.

Of this number were mailed or sent by express:

English	1,800
German	6,718
Norwegian	319
Swedish	2,905
Total.....	11,742

Of the circulating maps, with a short description of the state in English, German and Swedish, 4,500 were distributed by mail or express. Provision has been made for printing a larger supply of these maps, including a sufficient number in the Norwegian language.

The board has made arrangements to distribute the balance of these pamphlets and maps during the winter and spring, and will also make an effort the coming year to so systematize the distribution of these documents that they may reach all classes of people.

ADVERTISING IN NEWSPAPERS.

The success the board has had in inducing immigrants to make this state their home, may, to a large extent, be attributed to the advertisements published in newspapers. It was therefore thought wise to increase the number of papers to sixteen against eight the year previous, including one home paper.

The following is a list of papers in which advertisements have been published:

1. Der Ansiedler, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
2. American Settler, London, England.
3. Somerset & Wilts Journal, Frome, England.
4. Allehanda for Folket, Orebro, Sweden.
5. Hannover Tageblatt, Hannover, Germany.
6. Rostock Zeitung, Rostock, Germany.
7. Gotha Tageblatt, Gotha, Germany.
8. Königsberger Allgemeine Zeitung, Königsberg, Prussia.

13. Schwaebischer Merkur, Stuttgart, Germany.
14. Dorfzeitung, Hildburghausen, Germany.
15. Reichszeitung, Berlin, Germany.
16. Amerika, Wien, Austria.

AGENTS.

On account of the increased labor of the secretary, the board has appointed an agent in Milwaukee, whose duties are to visit the depots and steamboat landings, for the purpose of assisting immigrants in various ways, protecting them in their rights, and giving them such information as they may desire.

A branch office, under the auspices of Commissioners Smith and Ostergren, was again opened in Chicago, on May 21, for the purpose of taking care of immigrants who intend to settle in this state, but do not come by the way of Milwaukee. The expenses were limited to $35 per month.

The board also appointed, in May last, an agent in New York city to take charge of immigrants who came to this country to settle in Wisconsin, and to present to others, who were still undecided, the claims of this state. The office was, however, discontinued, June 30, as the expectations of the board were not realized.

Mr. K. K. Kennan, who had been sent to Europe by the Wisconsin Central Railroad Co., in the interests of their lands, was, at the request of Mr. Chas. L. Colby, president of said road, appointed agent of this board in Europe, without any compensation, however. Mr. Kennan was instructed to give all who might desire it, such information about this state, its resources and the advantages it offers to immigrants, as was furnished him by the board, and to collect useful statistics and information concerning European emigration.

In his report to the board, Mr. Kennan states that "on account of the stringent laws in those countries which furnish a large percentage of emigrants, very little can be done by the personal efforts of an agent. The object he is sent to accomplish can only be secured by extensive advertising and the distribution of pamphlets."

In answer to calls for information in the form of maps and pamphlets, upwards of 75,000 documents were distributed by him; among these were 7,570 of the pamphlets issued by this board, but this number falls far short of the demand, "as these pamphlets, by reason of their official character, carry much more weight, and are more eagerly sought for and read by the people, than those of railway and land companies."

In regard to his joint duties as an agent for a land company and for the state, he writes: "I have found it necessary, as well as politic, to represent impartially the whole state, and to furnish just as cordial and ready assistance to the mechanic and laborer bound for Milwaukee, as to the farmer who proposes to buy lands in the northern counties. Any other course than this would cast suspicion upon the fairness and ingenuousness of my statements."

The following statistics, culled by Mr. Kennan from official sources, will show the best field for immigration work:

COUNTRY.	No. of emigrants to U. S. in 1880.	Proportion of No. of emigrants to population as	Per cent. of the total population who emigrate.	Increase of emi- gration of 1880 over that of 1879.

As to the superior character of the emigrants now leaving Germany, Consul Grinnell, of Bremen, writes to the department at Washington under date of April 1, 1881:

"The emigrants this year are, without exception, of the best agricultural and industrial classes, taking money with them, the savings of years, the proceeds of their little tenements sold here, etc. My own inquiry and observation confirms the truth of the statement of the German journals, that Germany has never before lost such numbers of worthy and industrious people as are this year emigrating to the United States, and that the loss to the German Empire can scarcely be overestimated."

A review in a leading trade journal of Germany (Hamburger Handelsblatt, of March, 1881) states the case as follows:

"In conclusion, we cannot refrain from pointing to another very important fact, which is of great direct significance, especially for Germany. The number of emigrants landed in the United States in the year 1878 was 153,207; in the following year the number rose to 250,565, and in 1880 it reached the enormous figure of 586,068! According to other statistics, the average annual earnings of a workman amount to $625, and one may safely presume that every able-bodied workman contributes every year one-fifth of his earnings to the increase of the national wealth. Taking into consideration the period of time of the full working capacity of emigrants, according to their age, and considering the much less working capacity of the females, and the cost of raising the children which they bring with them, one may fairly presume that, during the last few years, not only considerable cash capital has been taken to the United States by the emigrants, but that every one of them carries to that country, in his labor, a capital which may be estimated at $1,200. The total value of the labor thus conveyed to the United States during the last five years may therefore be estimated at about $700,000,000. No wonder that the United States of America prosper!"

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, this board would call again the attention of your honorable body to the fact that congress has made no provision, yet, for the regulation of immigration, and to protect immigrants while coming to this country.

It seems strange that congress should remain indifferent to the protection of a class of people who not only add a valuable and important element to our population, but whose capital, labor, energy and enterprise help in developing the resources of the country and increasing the aggregate wealth. For sundry reasons, also, it is the duty of congress to so control the transportation of such large bodies of people as to insure their arrival in this country in sound health. There can be no doubt that the want of proper ventilation, the insufficient supply of water, and the inferior quality of the food supplied to emigrants on their way across the ocean, operates in developing and spreading contagious diseases among them, which are brought into this country and carried wherever they may go; and this, without any fault or means of prevention on their part. We do not speak of the suffering and loss of life which is incident to this condition of things. Surely it would be as humane as it would be prudent, for this government to take such steps as shall secure good treatment to them, while protecting ourselves against harm.

The emigration of such large numbers of people to this country is a matter of so much importance that it seems difficult to understand why the general government should not assume the responsibility of caring for them in every way that concerns their welfare and our own interest. There can be no question as to the need of some higher and stronger authority than now regulates the matter, to prevent the ill-treatment which is so often meted out to emigrants upon the high seas, and the wrongs inflicted upon them when they have reached our shores.

If your honorable body can in any way assist in directing the attention of congress to these facts, and securing such legislation as is needful, you will be conferring a boon upon every foreigner who sets his face towards this country, and promoting every region of the land which is waiting for industrious men and women to help build up its prosperity and happiness.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Hon. F. L. Gilson, speaker of the assembly:

The commissioners of the Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company, in response to Res. No. 14, A., submit the following report:

1. The number of acres of land conveyed to the company on account of construction of railroad between Portage and Tomah is 68,650; the net amount received on account of said lands is $83,689.80; the number of acres remaining unsold January 1, 1882, is 7,090; the estimate value is $1,772.

2. No lands were conveyed to the company in the indemnity limit of the St. Croix grant. The company claimed 160,000 acres indemnity lands in the grant of 1856. After six years of litigation with five different railroad companies, the circuit court of the United States rendered a decree in favor of the "Farm Mortgage Company" for indemnity lands, the quantity and location to be reported by a master. The case was appealed to the United States supreme court, and on the 13th day of August last the Farm Mortgage Company sold its claim to Edgar P. Sawyer for $160,000, an account of which is rendered in the annual report of the commissioners on file in the office of the secretary of state.

3. The annual report also shows how much has been distributed to claimants and how much remains on hand, to which the attention of parties interested is respectfully invited.

4. The rules for the admission of claims have been amended from time to time, as experience has shown necessary, to protect the company against the admission of fraudulent claims.

5. The affairs of the company cannot be terminated so long as the legislature permits the hearing and filing of new claims.

Respectfully submitted,

D. W. MAXON,
JOHN STEINER,
S. J. SEYMOUR,
IRA BIRD,
PETER HOUSTON,
HUGH McFARLANE,
Commissioners.

LETTERS, PETITIONS, Etc.

By Mr. Stanley:

Pet. No. 16, A.,

Remonstrance of D. T. Thill and 230 others against the passage of assembly bills 8 and 12, entitled bills relating to the assessment and collection of taxes.

To committee on Assessment and Collection of Taxes.

By Mr. Keyes:

No. 17, A.,

Memorial of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin, for the construction of a suitable building for the use of said society.

To the honorable, the legislature of Wisconsin:

Your memorialists, officers and members of the State Historical Society, respectfully represent:

The growth of the library and collections of the State Historical Society has been commensurate with the growth of the state. Little had been accomplished up to the reorganization of the society in January, 1854. After twelve years efforts, the library was, in January, 1866, moved to its present rooms in the capitol, with 21,000 books and pamphlets. During the past 16 years the collection has steadily increased to its present number of 95,000. While this growth has been almost unprecedented of its kind, the character and literary value of the collection may well compare with any public library of its numbers in the country.

The society was originally a chartered institution. But in a new country, where so few had wealth to bestow on literary institutions, however meritorious, the society would have languished, and probably died, for want of adequate support, had not the state stepped in and given it an annual appropriation, published its volumes of collections and catalogues, and in other ways imparted to it life and prosperity; and, in doing so, changed the character of its ownership, till now "the society," in the language of the revised statutes, is but "the trustee of the state," and nothing can be "alienated" without "the consent of the legislature."

All enlightened nations point, with becoming pride, to their great public libraries — the accumulated wisdom of ages — France to her National Library of 2,000,000 volumes; Great Britain to her British Museum of 1,150,000 volumes; Russia to her Imperial Library of 1,100,000 volumes; Prussia to her Royal Library of 700,000 volumes; Denmark to her Royal Library of 500,000 volumes; Saxony to her Public Library of 500,000 volumes and 400,000 pamphlets; and our own country to her Congressional Library of about 400,000 volumes.

At the commencement of this century there were but forty-nine libraries in the United States, aggregating only 80,000 volumes; and only one of the number reached 15,000 volumes, another scarcely 10,000, the others averaging but a few hundred volumes. These facts sufficiently attest the poverty of the literary resources of our country eighty years ago. Now we have well-nigh 4,000 public libraries, whose united collections exceed 12,000,000 of volumes. Some ten of these libraries range from 100,000 to 400,000 volumes; and not more than eighteen or twenty, all told, exceed in volumes, documents, and pamphlets, our own noble collection.

Of the thirteen historical and antiquarian societies in the country founded prior to our own organization, and the sixty-four since, but two number more volumes in their libraries than ours. In some departments of collection, we exceed them all, in pre-historic copper antiquities, and probably in our nearly four thousand bound newspaper files, including Dr. Franklin's old Pennsylvania Gazette from 1739 to 1763, in county histories, and in the number of portraits of the founders and prominent men of the territory and state. No other historical or state library, so far as we know, has a collection so nearly complete of its own state publications and newspapers, as we have garnered into our library — the newspaper files dating from the Green Bay Intelligencer, in 1833 to the present time. After many years of persistent effort, our society has at length completed a set of the autographs of the fifty-six immortal signers of the declaration of independence, of which not more than fifteen sets are in existence, two of which besides our own are in public libraries. These will, ere long, be bound in separate volumes, with appropriate illustrations. We have also a complete set of the autographs of the thirty-nine signers of the constitution of the United States.

What the National Library at Washington is to our general government, our library is to the state of Wisconsin. That noble collection of books at Washington, brought together with generous resources, has long since outgrown its apartments in the national capitol; and for its accommodation and safety, an edifice is now proposed, whose estimated cost is between two and a half and three millions of dollars. The joint select committee of congress on the new library building are disposed, it is stated, "to recommend the best building that can be obtained, without regard to what they consider niggardly economy, in view of the fact that it is intended to be a depository of the literary world for all time."

Our library, too, has outgrown its apartments in the Wisconsin capitol, and greatly needs safer and more ample accommodations. The necessity of such a building is too apparent to require any special argument. Such has been the expansion of our collections, that we have been compelled to utilize every nook and corner, even to the very ceiling, for shelving purposes, until there is no more available space for us to appropriate. Our books are overcrowded on the shelves; and our newspaper files, so frequently required for their legal notices in our courts, are either huddled together in dark apartments, or piled up in out-of-the-way corners. Our picture gallery, too, is overcrowded, as well as every other department of our collections.

We want a building — or, at least, that part of it devoted to the library proper — made as nearly fire proof as modern experience can make it. ANY MERE "FIRE-TRAP" WOULD BE A CRIME AGAINST HUMANITY. The literary treasures committed to the care of the society, and whose value has been placed at half a million of dollars — and which, if lost, no amount of money could ever replace — should be sacredly protected at whatever cost, and handed safely down to future generations. Such a library forms a part, and no mean part, of the educational system of a great state. We want the means within our own domain, for the full education of our sons and daughters; we want the needful literary resources for our scholars and investigators, and the printed results of the world's experience in the sphere of invention to satisfy the cravings of inventive genius among us.

It is appalling to reflect how many noble libraries and invaluable public archives — many of them in our own country — have been, in part or whole, swept away by the devouring element. The archives of New Jersey were burned in 1686; those of South Carolina in 1698; New Hampshire in 1736; New York in 1740-41; Virginia in 1746, and again in 1781; Massachusetts in 1747, besides sustaining damages from three previous fires; Kentucky in 1813, again in 1824, and the detached state offices, on the east side of the capitol, in 1865; North Carolina in 1831; and, in 1849, the public records and Parliament Library of Canada — the library esteemed one of the best in North America; and, five years later, when a new library was collected, that, too, was swept away by conflagration.

Several times have the national archives at Washington suffered by the devouring element. In 1800, when the buildings of the war department were destroyed, and twice subsequently more or less injured. In 1814, the British burned the public buildings, destroying the national library of 8,000 volumes, as well as many of the public archives; in 1833 the treasury buildings were burned; in 1836 the general post office and patent office were destroyed, with almost their entire contents, including many thousand patent models, drawings and descriptions; and in 1851, the Congressional Library was burned, from defective chimney flues, destroying 35,000 volumes of books, together with many valuable paintings medals, and statuary. In connection with the destruction of these government buildings, the significant fact should be stated, that the valuable public records and documents in the two fire-proof rooms of the war department in 1814, and those in the fire proof rooms of the treasury department in 1833, were all saved, while most of the others were consumed. In January, 1865, the partial destruction of the Smithsonian Institute by fire, resulted in the loss of a portion of its library, amounting to $20,000, and $26,000 more to individual depositors — among them J. M. Stanley, losing about two hundred Indian portraits, nearly all life size. The official report of the fire adds: "The fire-proofing, so far as it was carried, was well done, and it is to this circumstance that the preservation of the most valuable objects of the establishment is due."

Other public institutions and public libraries have not escaped the devouring elements. In 1705, the library and philosophical apparatus of the College of William and Mary, at Williamsburg, Virginia, were destroyed by fire; and, in February, 1859, the buildings of that institution, with its Library of nine thousand volumes, which had been one hundred and fifty-four years in accumulating, were totally consumed. In 1758, the Providence library, which had been nearly eighty years in collecting, was entirely destroyed, save a few volumes loaned out; while, in 1778, the Charleston Library Society lost its collections, between five and six thousand volumes, saving less than two hundred, and these partly of mutilated sets. In 1856, the building of the medical department of the university of Pennsylvania was destroyed by fire, and a portion only of its fine library and chemical apparatus was saved. In our own state, some twenty odd years ago, the building of the Platteville academy, with its valuable library, was destroyed by conflagration. In 1862, the city hall of Bordeaux was burned, and in its flames perished documentary evidence exhibiting eight hundred years of Gascon history, contained in many thousand autograph letters of kings, emperors, princes, governors, mayors, archbishops, and military commanders, relating to commerce, war, art, science, letters, and navigation for the past eight eventful centuries. In January, 1879, the Birmingham and Midland Institute Library was destroyed by fire, notable for its collection of 8,000 volumes of "Shakesperiana," 1,000 volumes illustrating the works of Cervantes, and many other rare and valuable books. And only a few weeks since, the capitol of Texas was burned, destroying the state library of some eight or ten thousand volumes.

Kindred societies, and similar collections to ours, have not escaped the calamities of fire. In 1847, the valuable library of the Royal Society of Icelandic Literature at Copenhagen, was destroyed by fire. The loss was peculiarly unfortunate, as the library contained more than two thousand unpublished manuscripts, and a numerous collection of ancient Icelandic works. The library and cabinet of the Iowa Historical and Geological Institute, the fruit of ten years' successful and pains taking effort, became a prey to the flames in 1853 — losing all their books, valuable files of territorial newspapers, 5,000 pamphlets, 100 maps, 200 manuscripts, a splendid collection of fossils, plants and other specimens of natural history, together with a cabinet of about 400 Indian relics, including the trappings of Black Hawk. When the parliament buildings at Quebec were burned, in February, 1854, destroying a portion of the Government Library, with many valuable paintings, the Historical and Literary Society of Quebec, which had rooms in the parliament buildings, lost almost the whole of its twenty-three years' gatherings, including its valuable library and museum — the latter alone valued at over $12,000 — together with its ninety folio volumes of Records of the Realm, and a large collection of manuscripts. On the 6th of January, 1857, the state house of Vermont was destroyed by fire, with many valuable collections of the civil and natural history of the state, together with a large number of newspaper files, which Henry Stevens, the president of the Vermont Historical Society, had been some forty years in bringing together.

A number of years since, a very large collection of western newspaper files, and other printed matter, designed for illustrating the civil and ecclesiastical history of the west, patiently gathered during a period of some thirty years by the late Rev. Dr. John M. Peck, was destroyed by the burning of the building, at Rock Spring, Illinois, in which they were deposited. Within a few years, the Chicago Historical Society has twice lost its valuable collections by the devastations of fire; and, only last winter, the Minnesota Historical Society lost a portion of its fine collections by the burning of the Minnesota state house, in which its library was domiciled.

Well may historical students, and lovers of literature and knowledge, deplore such stupendous and irreparable losses. Hence the pertinent inquiry, more easily asked than answered — Why was not better care taken of such inestimable collections? Some of these deplorable losses resulted from defective construction of library edifices; and some from too close proximity to other buildings. Sad experience has taught, that library edifices should be better constructed, and more isolated from surrounding dangers. A commission appointed by the government of France to consider the question of isolating its great National Library, has decided that the adjoining buildings must come down, consisting of a vast block, bounded by four streets and squares.

We should profit by these sad calamities, and make adequate provision for the protection and safety of our Wisconsin treasures. A penny-wise policy will be sure to be the dearest in the end. Could a library speak, it would proclaim from the house-tops:

“Men may come, and men may go,
BUT I GO ON FOREVER!”

These precious receptacles, where are embalmed the wisdom of Shakespeare, of Bacon, of Newton, of Washington, of Franklin, of Webster and thousands of others, cannot be too carefully guarded by all the appliances known to the skill and ingenuity of man.

When edifices are erected for large public libraries, and the paramount object is ample accommodations, convenience, and as near ABSOLUTE SAFETY as possible, the outlay must necessarily correspond with the size, importance, and growth of the collection. The newly proposed building for our National Library, as already indicated, will cost well nigh three millions of dollars, to provide adequate space for its 400,000 volumes. The building for the Ridgway branch of the Philadelphia Library has cost nearly $700,000, while the old library of which it is an adjunct, has 104,000 volumes. The Boston Public Library has expended $365,000 on its building, to provide for its library of 330,000 volumes. The Astor Library edifice has, in addition to the ground it occupies, cost $450,000, and has 200,000 volumes. The Lenox Library building cost $450,000, beside $400,000 for its locality; containing a collection of books and works of art, the accumulation of half a century's patient toil of one of those few men who “do good by stealth, and blush to find it fame.” The Philadelphia Mercantile Library building was erected by the expenditure of $225,000, to provide for 125,000 volumes. The Boston Athenæum, with its 110,000 volumes, has a building costing $200,000. The Peabody Institute building at Baltimore cost $182,000, and has 57,000 volumes. The state of New York has in course of erection, for its State Library of 100,000 volumes, a magnificent edifice, two hundred and ninety feet in length, the cost of which is not yet known. Enoch Pratt, of Baltimore, has commenced the erection of a Free Library building in that city, at a cost of $225,000, capable of holding 200,000 volumes, and proposing an endowment of $833,000.

Twenty-eight years ago, the few volumes belonging to our society — all but two of which were Wisconsin territorial and state laws and journals — were stowed away on the shelves of a small case, three by four feet in size.

Now our collections require 6,500 feet, linear measure of shelving, aside from our closets, separate rooms for duplicates, with not a few volumes, for which we cannot otherwise find space, are piled up — presenting altogether nearly a mile and a half of shelving. The Astor Library, with its 200,000 volumes, has a fraction over seven miles of shelving. We shall soon need as much, and it will be wise to make our calculations accordingly. Beside rooms for the library proper, we need a large apartment for our nearly four thousand newspaper files; a sky-light gallery for our hundred and fourteen pictures; a special apartment for our over four thousand volumes of British and American patent reports, covering a period of over two and a half centuries; a room for our museum of historical and natural curiosities; a large general reading room, with smaller ones for special investigators; rooms for duplicate books and pamphlets for exchanges; and rooms for packing, unpacking and storage.

It becomes an enlightened people to cherish its literary treasures. A generation of time has been consumed, unwearied pains taken, and a large amount of money expended, in gathering the library and collections of our historical society — to which large contributions have been made by not a few literary and scientific societies, and distinguished men and women of both hemispheres. Many successive legislatures have fostered and encouraged it, until at length it has acquired a reputation for rare and solid literature extending beyond our own continent. It is the pride of the citizens of Wisconsin, as the general expression of the newspaper press in every part of the state, and the memorial of our leading editors, abundantly attest. Letters from our oldest and most prominent citizens, warmly commendatory of the project for a safe and adequate building, and which are herewith appended, sufficiently evince the high esteem in which the Historical Society, and its noble library, are held by our people.

Realizing, as we do, the danger from conflagration to which our precious collections are constantly exposed, we should have failed in our duty to a deserving state institution, as well as to the present and future generations, had we said less, or presented it less plainly to the representatives of the people. Having acquitted ourselves in this behalf, we respectfully ask the law-givers of Wisconsin to accord to this matter a fair, just, and early consideration.

APPENDED LETTERS.

Hon. C. C. Washburn, president of the society, writes: I read your letter with a great deal of interest, and sincere approval. Though I am told by my physicians that I must stop writing, or even thinking, yet I will bid them defiance so far as to say to you, that I approve of every word you say. The state is justly proud of the Historical Society, and to you especially, and to your associate, Mr. Durrie, is due the honor of its being what it is. It has grown to such proportions, that there is little opportunity for its enlargement without the state's co-operation. The room now occupied is wanted for other purposes.

While other states have spent, some of them, millions on their capitol buildings, Wisconsin has spent less than three-fourths of a million. The amount named by you seems to me wholly inadequate. The fact is, our new and growing states have all grown beyond the anticipations of the most sanguine, and what seemed large at the time the appropriations were made, and buildings planned, has since proved inadequate to the public wants. Wisconsin is a great and prosperous state — rapidly increasing in wealth and importance. The state is able to do whatever ought to be done to promote the public welfare. I do not see how the legislature can withhold a proper appropriation for a building for the society. No one can forecast the future, or tell to what proportions your collection may grow: It certainly will exceed the most sanguine anticipations of any; and, I trust, you will lay out for the far off future. You ought not to think of starting a building that when completed will cost less than a couple of hundred thousand dollars. Such an appropriation, stretched over a period of three years, would hardly be felt by the people.

I not only feel anxious for this adoption by the state of your great work — I may say the work of a life-time, because of the vast treasures of knowledge you have gathered, but as a proper acknowledgment to you personally for the great work you have accomplished, performing more labor, with less pay, than any public servant I know of. With you it has been a labor of love; and with the people, or at least with one of them, it shall also be a testimony for one that the state shall never cease to value.

Hon. Henry S. Magoon writes: Briefly and frankly, I cannot but think that a building of approved architecture, well located, with grounds surrounding for trees and fountain, the building thoroughly fire-proof, and sufficient to hold ten times the present collections without crowding, and so constructed as to admit of an extensive addition thereto without spoiling the architectural effect, or at all inconveniencing the grounds: such a building and grounds, whose aggregate cost, wisely and economically used, shall foot up to about $250,000, and not materially less, is the building our great state needs, and will pay for ungrudgingly, and is the only building commensurate with the importance and value, present and prospective, of the priceless stores housed within. I, as a private citizen, vote for such a building, and nothing less. This would entail a cost of less than twenty-five cents tax per capita, on the present population of the state; but would insure a monument to the honor, and the only safe depository for the archives, of a great people. If the state will build and complete, as herein suggested, inside of two years, I for one will contribute not less than one thousand dollars to the endowment fund of the society as a donation, upon such completion.

Hon. T. O. Howe writes: I am very glad to hear that the next legislature will be asked to provide additional accommodations for the already valuable collections of the State Historical Society. I earnestly hope the request will not be denied. The man who refuses to throw a roof over his upholstery is quite too frugal. So is the state which withholds needed space to its literary treasures. Perhaps a state can exist without a library? So perhaps can a man without furniture? But neither had better try the experiment. Pardon me one suggestion. Your estimate that a building large enough "for present and future wants," may be had for $80,000. In 1860, the library of congress contained but 60,000 volumes. It now contains about 800,000. During that period of twenty-one years, congress expended $160,000 in securing additional room for the collection, and yet a new library building is now the most urgent need of the national capitol. Your library will not increase with the same rapidity; but if it continues to be nursed with the same diligence you have expended upon it, the collection will soon outgrow any provision which can be secured for $80,000. When you build, therefore, you will be wise to build upon some plan which will permit extension in the future, without compelling reconstruction.

Ex-Gov. Nelson Dewey writes: I fully concur in the proposition to ask the legislature to erect a suitable building for the preservation of the extensive library and other collections of the State Historical Society, so rapidly accumulating. It is truly an important state institution, and should be sustained by the state; and the proposed building should be fire-proof.

Ex-Gov. L. J. Farwell, now of Missouri, writes: To accomplish your appointed enterprise, and to secure abundant means for a rock-bound, suitable edifice for the literary treasures of the state, I hope the legislature will make liberal appropriations. Let the old citizens of Wisconsin now residing in other states, as well as the present citizens of the state — and cities and counties — be requested not only to furnish books, portraits, and money for endowment funds, but a proper sized stone for the walls of your new building, properly inscribed with ingenious devices, representing the history and civilization of the age. I hope that all of our labor and care will not be misapplied, and that the mass of matter brought together will be found deserving the attention of the public. I am in sympathy with all the old residents of Wisconsin, and all who have the interests of the society at heart.

Ex-Gov. Edward Salomon, now of New York, writes: Concerning your views, that the state should provide a permanent, safe and proper habitation for its Historical Society to enable it to preserve and expand the treasures of that most excellent institution, by erecting a new building for that purpose, I share them most fully; and, were I yet a citizen of Wisconsin, I should, with you, deem it my duty to appeal to the legislature for an appropriation for that purpose. I often have occasion for a feeling of pride for the state in which I passed so large a portion of my youth and manhood, and in whose welfare I shall ever have the deepest interest. It has made steady and most rapid progress in everything that elevates a state and its people, in material prosperity, as well as in higher branches of civilization. While I feel flattered and honored that you should call upon me, after I have ceased to be a citizen of Wisconsin for nearly twelve years, for an expression of my views upon the subject which you have so much at heart, I cannot for a moment suppose that the legislature of the state will have the slightest hesitation in providing a permanent and proper building for the noble institution with which your labors have been so prominently and successfully connected, and which must already be a source of great satisfaction and pride to the people of the state.

Ex-Gov. James T. Lewis, one of the society's vice presidents, writes: The state greatly needs a good fire-proof building for its Historical Society collections; and, I hope, the legislature will take action in the matter. I shall be pleased to aid in every way I can.

Ex-Gov. Lucius Fairchild writes: I am very glad to hear that there is a good prospect that better quarters will be provided for our Historical Society. I cannot doubt that the legislature will promptly and willingly grant any money necessary for such a laudable purpose; and when it is done, I am very sure the people will say amen to it. The fame of the value of the library has reached even this far-off country. It is an honor to our state, and well worth caring for in the very best manner possible. I feel under many obligations to you and Mr. Durie for the valuable services both have rendered to the society.

Ex-Gov. Harrison Ludington writes: I am of the opinion that an appropriation should be made by the legislature this winter for the purpose of erecting a fire-proof building for the preservation of the library and collections of the State Historical Society; and the building should be completed with as little delay as possible.

Ex Gov. Wm. E. Smith writes: The people of Wisconsin are justly proud of the State Historical Society and its collections, and will approve of any reasonable expenditure for the purpose of making better provision for its vast treasures. It must be apparent to all, that it has outgrown its present apartments, and I hope that the legislature now in session will make provision for its accommodation.

Ex Lieut. Gov. Arthur McArthur writes: The superb scale of the collections of the State Historical Society would seem to indicate that the time had come for increased accommodations; and I very much hope that the legislature this winter will provide the means for erecting a library building for the present and future accumulations. The library has been adopted by the state, and is one of its most splendid ornaments. Your nearly one hundred thousand volumes will be increased in a very short time to five times that number. Let the building go up by all means; for should this great and growing collection be lost or destroyed through our neglect, what better would we be than the Saracens who burned up the great Alexandrian Library.

Ex Lieut. Gov J. M. Bingham writes: I am decidedly in favor of the state taking immediate steps to put up a building capable of holding, and preserving from fire, the very valuable collections of the Historical Society — and no time should be lost. The state not only owes this much to itself, but it is due to your patient, tireless and long-continued efforts in making this collection, that it should show its appreciation of your faithful service and ability.

Lieutenant Governor S. S. Fildes writes: I am most heartily in favor of the state erecting a suitable building for the Historical Society. I look upon the society as one of the grandest institutions in the state — of incalculable value to its people, and one that they should most willingly support. The building should be fire-proof; and, instead of being a plain, ill-looking, prison-like affair, it should be ornamented, and made equal to any state institution at present existing.

Ex-Gov. Horatio Seymour, of New York, president of the Oneida Historical Society, writes, after lamenting that the Empire State has been so remiss in saving its early records, and now has to pay large sums to secure rare printed matter pertaining to its early history: Wisconsin has been more wise and fortunate than other states; and its action is regarded with interest in other parts of the Union. I have watched with interest what has been done at Madison in gathering up books and papers, which will grow in interest and value each succeeding year. I hope your state will not lose by neglect the honorable position it has gained in this respect; and I shall be sorry if your legislature does not make suitable provision for your library, which could never be replaced, if lost.

Hon. C. C. Trowbridge, of Detroit, one of the honorary vice presidents of the society, writes: I perceive that your — may I not say our — Historical Society, has already in the gristle of its youth, out-grown its garments, and needs more room; and that you intend to go to the representatives of your people, who, with wise forecast, have hitherto helped you, and ask them for a suitable edifice in which to preserve your magnificent collections. I cannot for one moment, doubt your success. By a felicitous combination of learning and untiring zeal in its secretary — God bless him! — and a sagacious legislature, with the co-operation of intelligent citizens, you have an institution, which for the magnitude and value of its collections, is unequalled by any other on this continent. It is the pride, not only of your own citizens, but of your neighbors, while it is cause of mortification to some of them, that they have folded their hands and allowed the time to slip by, when they could have achieved something in the same direction. I verily believe, that if you had cast your lot in Michigan, we would now be in the fore-front. My memory is very distinct of the time, sixty-one years ago, when I crossed Wisconsin, with Governor Cass, in a bark canoe. How little did we dream then of the present state of things. The interval is crowded with pleasant memories, among which is my acquaintance with you.

Senator Angus Cameron writes: A commodious fire-proof building ought to be erected by the state for the use of the Historical Society. I hope the governor, in his next annual message, will recommend that the legislature make a sufficient appropriation for erecting and properly furnishing such a building.

Senator Philetus Sawyer writes: I am most earnestly in favor of a new building for the State Historical Society; and hope our legislature will, at an early day, make the necessary appropriation for it, as the present rooms are entirely inadequate. I regard the society and its collections of great value to the people of the state.

Hon. Morgan L. Martin, one of the society's vice presidents, writes: A suitable building for the accommodation of the Historical Society is a necessity which I have long appreciated, and frequently spoken of, and shall willingly co operate in the effort to induce its recognition by the state authorities. The governor can do no more graceful or laudable act, than to present the matter in his message to the legislature.

Hon. J. T. Kingston, another of the society's vice presidents, writes: I have long known the need of a more safe depository for the historical collections than that now occupied. It is needless for me to say how high a value I place on the collections of the Historical Society. They are, in fact, invaluable, not only to our own state, and the country at large, but more especially to the people of the western states. I will, gladly do what I can for a new building.

Hon. Enoch Chase writes: I fully appreciate the importance of a fire-proof building for the State Historical Society, and you can rely on my aid in accomplishing it to the extent of my ability.

Hon. John F. Potter, one of the society's vice presidents, writes: I am most decidedly of the opinion, that the state ought to erect a suitable building for the Historical Society, and I think it will be done. I will most gladly do all in my power to promote the interests of the society, and no one will be more thankful than I, to have your every wish in relation to the society gratified, for you deserve it, and much more. I hope most earnestly that you will live to see such an edifice arise as will be a credit to the state, and a richly deserved crown of honor to you for your long devotion to the best interests of the present, as well as the future population of the state.

Hon. Alexander Mitchell, a life director of the society, writes: That more room is required by the Historical Society, is a brief but expressive account of the prosperity of the institution — and this I am glad to learn. The society is a public institution. Its collections, and the works and aims of its officers and members are objects of state interest and state pride, and should have the fostering care of the state. I am of opinion that the state ought to provide for a new fire-proof building, of ample capacity for its present wants and future growth. The valuable collections of the society ought not to be overcrowded, nor exposed to the risks of damage or destruction by fire. The cost of such a structure, with the payments graduated by the time consumed in the construction, would hardly be felt by the tax-payers of the state.

Hon. Moses M. Strong, one of the vice presidents of the society, writes: It was a matter of regret with me, that the state legislature at its last session, did not make some provision for a suitable building for the preservation and convenient exhibition and use of its highly valuable collections, of which the historical society is its trustee — a collection which is so constantly and rapidly increasing, that it will in fifty years require four times the space it now does. I hope the ensuing legislature will provide for an adequate fire-proof building.

Col. Hans Crocker writes: The Historical Society needs, and should have, a new building. I will aid in every way in my power. Our people ought to be proud of the library, which, I think, is the best and most economically managed of any in the country. All that it is, I think, is due to you and Mr. Durrie.

Hon. Wm. A. Prentiss writes: The State Historical Society is a most valuable institution to the people of Wisconsin, and I do not believe the legislature would act so unwisely as to reject an application for the aid necessary to make it an honor to Wisconsin and the whole northwest. Make, then, an appeal to the legislature for a new building. I do not believe that the tax-payers of Wisconsin would object to an appropriation of a sufficient sum — say $140,000 — for that purpose, so as to provide for, at least, thirty years to come.

Gen. John H. Rountree, of the society's vice presidents, writes: I have for some time thought that more room was necessary for the library of the Historical Society, and that measures to procure the same would have to be adopted before long. As times are prosperous in our state, perhaps an early effort would be desirable. I will be glad to aid in effecting this purpose.

Hon. F. W. Horn writes: What I can do in the matter concerning a new building for the Historical Society, shall be done. It should have been the business of the legislature ten years ago to furnish ample and good buildings for the society.

The late Hon. Satterlee Clark wrote, shortly before his death: I think the legislature could be induced to build such a building for the Historical Society as would be required to preserve its valuable collections, and you can rely on my active co-operation. I think it would be well to ascertain what some of the older states have done in that regard, to present to our legislature.

Gen. H. C. Hobart writes: The state should erect a suitable building for the safe-keeping and proper exhibition of our very valuable historical collections. You have done a masterly work for the history of Wisconsin; and I almost tremble when I realize, that in an hour it may be all swept away by fire, and that much of great value could never be restored by the hand of man. The intelligent state of Wisconsin will not hesitate, in my opinion, to vote the necessary means to erect a suitable fire-proof building, of sufficient dimensions and appropriate architecture, to protect and display our valuable collections. Their present crowded condition resembles more nearly a cluttered store-room of curiosities than a grand collection of materials for history. I know of persons who have works of value which they will donate to the Historical Society whenever it has safe and suitable rooms in which to preserve and exhibit them.

Gen. James Sutherland, one of the society's vice presidents, writes: I most heartily approve of having the state provide a fire-proof building for the Historical Society. It seems to me, that the state could not better invest the necessary amount of money. I think the better-informed people will generally favor the matter. I find that the people generally who visit the capital, take more pride in our State Historical Society's collections than in anything else. It will give me pleasure to do anything I can to further the object.

Hon. T. R. Hudd writes: No one appreciates more than I do the great benefit to our state, and to the great north-west, of the collections of the State Historical Society, that we, in great part, if not entirely, owe to your unselfish labor and intellectual foresight. Long may you live to see the fruits of those more than ordinary gains, garnered and housed as befits the royal treasures so accumulated. I know from some years' observation at Madison, and among that collection, that it needs, and should have, more and secure space. A loss by fire of that collection could never be replaced in kind, and no money could compensate for its destruction. It is the duty, as it should be the pleasure, of the state, at once to provide for that space and safety in a commodious fire-proof building. I hope your efforts in that direction will meet with immediate success.

Hon. M. M. Davis writes: I think the state should erect a suitable building for the preservation of the collections of our Historical Society. The historical rooms have already become the most interesting place to visit in the state, not only for our own scholars and students, but for those of other states and other countries. I heartily approve of the proposition to memorialize the next legislature on the subject. We should all take a deep interest in preserving the collections which, mainly through your untiring labors, have been gathered into our state historical rooms.

Judge Charles E. Dyer writes: The State Historical Society, as indicated by its name is an institution of the state, and as such should have its fostering care. The rich collections of the society ought to be carefully preserved, and adequate facilities provided for the constantly increasing accumulation. I heartily concur with those who are of the opinion that it is wise and practicable to apply to the legislature to provide additional room for the growing needs of the society.

Hon. Thad. C. Pound, one of the society's vice presidents, writes: I am of the opinion that a new and appropriate building for the State Historical Society is well worthy the favorable consideration of our legislature. I have no doubt an adequate sum will promptly be appropriated for so laudable a purpose. Will not the governor make favorable mention of the matter in his message?

Hon. Charles G. Williams writes, with reference to enlarged accommodations for the State Historical Society: My impression, given off-hand, is, that it is quite as appropriate and desirable that the legislature should make all needful and reasonable appropriations to maintain and preserve so valuable a collection as that of the Wisconsin Historical Society, as it is that congress should make appropriations to maintain the various libraries, museums, and other collections of scientific and historical value at the national capitol. I shall be much pleased if the legislature, in its wisdom, shall deem it best to make an appropriation for this purpose, as it is one, which, I think, will redound to the future credit of the state.

Hon. H. L. Humphrey writes: I am heartily in sympathy with those who are urging the state to erect suitable buildings for the Historical Society.

Hon. N. D. Fraitt writes: I have always taken a lively interest in our State Historical collections at Madison, and think the state should provide ample accommodations for their safe-keeping, and large enough for future increase of collections. The state is abundantly able to provide suitable buildings for all its institutions. If the appropriation should be divided in its payments into one, two and three years, it could be completed without being burdensome to the tax payers — indeed, it would hardly be felt at all.

Hon. Horace Rublee writes: I regard the library of the State Historical Society as one of the most useful and creditable institutions of the state. As it is open to the students of the State University, it is, for practical purposes, a part of that institution; and from personal knowledge, I know that it is largely used by the students, and is of great benefit to them, as well as to all citizens who wish to pursue investigations in historical and other studies. It is a center of educational influence, and, as such, ought to be fostered by the state. I consequently believe that an application to the legislature for the erection of a suitable fire-proof building for the State Historical Library, would be entirely proper, and that that body should grant it.

Hon. Theodore Rodolf writes: I have for some time been satisfied that the present rooms of the Historical Society are inadequate for its purposes. The state ought to appropriate the necessary means for the erection of a suitable fire-proof building for the society, with proper architectural beauty, but without any filigree work. I entertain no doubt that the legislature will sufficiently appreciate this matter as to grant the aid asked for.

Hon. A. R. R. Butler writes: I say, as I feel, that I heartily approve of the state providing a suitable fire proof building for the Historical Society.

Gen. John A. Kellogg writes: I look upon the State Historical Society as a state institution, and it has been recognized as such by annual appropriations for many years. I do not believe in begging. There is but one course to pursue, in my judgment. The legislature has the legal right to appropriate sufficient funds to erect a suitable building for the society, and ought to do it.

Gen. James Bintliff writes: I cordially approve the proposition to ask the legislature to erect a fire-proof building, in which shall be sufficient room to enable the public to use the treasures of our own invaluable library collections, and to protect from harm records and books, many of which, if destroyed, could never be replaced. The people of this state very justly place a high estimate upon the State Historical Library; and they are willing to incur any reasonable cost to enable the public to have commodious use of it, and to protect it from harm.

Hon. Edward D. Holton writes: I hasten to say, that as one tax-payer, I most cordially second the suggestion, that a suitable fire-proof building for the Historical Society be erected, without delay, for the protection and preservation of the invaluable treasures which your busy hand has been so eminently instrumental in gathering. I trust that you may see a treasure-house erected for the purpose for yet further accumulations.

Gen. G. Van Steenwyk writes: I fear it would be hard work to raise by subscription a sufficient amount to erect an appropriate fire-proof building for the exhibition and safe-keeping of all the literary, historical and antiquarian treasures of the Historical Society; and, in all probability, after a relatively small proportion should be realized, the state would have, in the end, to step in, and complete it. I am, therefore, of the opinion, that it being a state institution, the state ought to provide a suitable building of a capacity sufficient for many years to come.

Hon. L. F. Frisby writes: It seems to me, that the state ought to provide for its own institution, the State Historical Society, rather than rely upon the uncertainty of private subscriptions for a new library building. Wisconsin has become one of the great states of the great northwest; and, at this late day, it cannot afford to kill out, or cripple even, the work of the society in this advanced stage of its usefulness. Unless bad counsels prevail, the necessary provision will be made when the matter is fairly and squarely presented to the legislature.

Hon. Robert H. Baker writes: I am in favor of the state appropriating a sufficient sum to put up a spacious building for the Historical Society, to accommodate not only the present very valuable collections of the Society, but to meet its wants for years to come. If the people of the state fully comprehend the real value of this collection to themselves, they would think as we do.

Hon. John A. Rice, one of the society's vice-presidents, writes: A fire-proof building for the Historical Society has become a necessity. In the present fairly prosperous condition of the state, and its rapid increase in population, it seems to me, that the time has come when the erection of such a building ought to be successfully urged upon the legislature. Wisconsin is rich, and the cost, divided up among all our people, would be comparatively trifling. For one I should be glad to have the state liberal enough to provide a building in every way commensurate with the present wants, and prospective growth of the society. I shall be but too glad to aid in any way I can to secure the end so much desired by all who properly appreciate the inestimable treasures stowed away on the shelves of the society.

Hon. Edwin E. Woodman writes: I thank you for remembering that I am interested in the welfare of the Historical Society, and for thinking that any word from me could forward its progress more rapidly. I consider that a new building for the society's library is the next important public enterprise to which our people should contribute. Its importance cannot be overestimated, nor its execution be longer delayed, without detriment to the only purely literary monument the state possesses. I will most cheerfully bear my share of the necessary cost—it cannot be called a burden—and aid the enterprise by every legitimate means at my command.

Hon. John W. Hoyt, long the worthy secretary of the Wisconsin Agricultural Society, and now governor of Wyoming, writes: There is no one thing in the nature of our achievement of which Wisconsin has more reason to be proud than of her great and flourishing historical society. Other states rival her, not only in natural resources and industrial progress, but even in excellence of school system and character of the higher institutions of learning; but her historical society is peerless. This I say advisedly, having, within recent years, visited all the leading institutions of like character in the country. One or two others may outnumber it in books, pamphlets and manuscripts, but not one of them can compare with it in the more important matters of vital energy and rapid development. A few more years of corresponding growth, and workers in this historic field will come to it for material from all portions of the United States.

The remarkable result already attained must be credited in a large part to the wisdom, resolution, energy and devotion of our accomplished and self-sacrificing secretary, assisted for many years by a most faithful and efficient librarian. But much of it is also due to the exceptional liberality of the state. Quarters and money have been freely accorded.

In this wise liberality of the past, there is ground of confidence for the time to come. The people only need to know that this society has outgrown the apartments so generously assigned to it years ago, and to realize that its library and other possessions are not safe. Satisfy them of this, and that the requisite accommodations can but be furnished by the erection of a separate building, and they will heartily approve any reasonable expenditure for that purpose.

The relation of the state government to this matter is that of trustee; and not alone for the honor of a great and prosperous commonwealth; the whole country, nay the cause of history for all time, has a claim which should not, and I believe will not, be ignored. A handsome edifice, as nearly fire-proof as possible, with ample accommodations for the society — shall I not suggest for the Academy of Science, as well? — and so planned as to admit of easy enlargement, would do ample credit to a people already justly distinguished for an enlightened liberality.

President A. L. Chapin, of Beloit College, writes: The legislature ought properly to provide a building adequate for the safe-keeping of the library not only as it is, but as it certainly will be enlarged in years to come. I should most heartily favor an application to the legislature for an appropriation for that purpose. To keep the books in a magnificent show room is a great mistake, involving much inconvenience and damage to books. A building arranged for cases pretty closely packed for storing books in a systematic way, with ample rooms adjoining, for consultation, etc., will, I believe, meet the exigencies best.

The late Hon. Henry D. Barron, one of the society's vice presidents, wrote: I heartily approve of the state providing a separate fire-proof building for the Historical Society; and were I in the legislature, as I was for a number of years, I should consider myself in the proper discharge of my duty in voting to tax myself my mite and my constituents also, to carry out the proposition for a new building.

Hon. John G. McMynn writes: Our state ought to provide a suitable building for our historical collections. The present contracted quarters it is simply impossible to properly arrange or profitably use them. It seems to me, that we need a commodious fire-proof building, specially designed for, and adapted to, the wants of the Historical Society. I hope that our next legislature may act in this matter, as, I am confident, the best interest of the people demand. The members for this, the older part of the state, will, I am sure, view the matter in its proper light. The remarkable success that has attended your efforts in collecting and arranging the materials for future history, as well as the publications of the society, are sources of pleasure and profit to every intelligent citizen, and your zeal and industry, as well as your extensive knowledge, command respect outside of our own state.

Hon. A. Scott Sloan writes: The state ought to provide a suitable building for the use of the Historical Society; and, it would seem that there could be no hesitation on the part of the legislature in making ample provision for the purpose. As time goes by, the necessity for gathering and preserving everything connected with our history and progress becomes more apparent, to say nothing of the fact that the State Historical Society is already a state institution; and the state, as a matter of pride and duty, ought to take care of its own.

Hon. Alex A. Arnold writes: The benefits that arise from the Historical Society, under the law, and in the manner it has been conducted thus far, are invaluable; and while the legislature should be economical, it should never resolve itself into a policy of penuriousness; and, in consideration of the great utility of the society to our people, it becomes the duty of our lawmakers to grant a sufficient appropriation for a suitable building for the present collections of the Historical Society, with a view of its farther extension when needed.

Hon. Daniel Hall writes: I most cordially endorse the suggestion that the state should provide a suitable building for the library of the State Historical Society. The state can well construct an appropriate receptacle for so valuable a treasury of knowledge, gathered largely by your untiring efforts, and long-continued and patient labors.

Hon. Hamilton H. Gray writes: I coincide with you and others, that the state should provide an adequate building for the Historical Society. In my visits to the surrounding states, I never hear the subject of historical collections alluded to, without the mention of our great Wisconsin gathering, coupled with your name. I earnestly hope the legislature will make the needful provision for a new building.

Hon. John W. Boyd writes: I am decidedly in favor of the state building a new and commodious edifice for the safe-keeping of the valuable library and rich treasures which the Historical Society has collected by long years of faithful labor. I am perfectly willing to pay my share of the taxes necessary to erect a proper fire-proof building.

Hon. E. L. Browne writes: I am very clearly of the opinion now, as I have been for the last two years, that a state appropriation is very much needed to provide suitable accommodations for the Historical Society. For the present and future usefulness of the Society, as well as for the honor and glory of our noble state, this matter should receive the immediate action of our legislature. The people will not complain at such a necessary appropriation. To withhold it, would not be economy, but waste and extravagance.

Hon. John E. Thomas writes: As to the duty of the state to care for and generously nurture the Historical Society, there ought to be, in my judgment, but one opinion. The proposition to provide a suitable building for the proper arrangement and preservation of its many valuable documents and other property, is not, from my standpoint, a debatable question. Let it be architecturally and otherwise worthy its precious occupancy. Such a building would rather add to, than diminish, our material interests. Wealthy and cultured people in other states have their eyes upon Wisconsin as a possible future home for themselves or their children; and the fair name already established for our state is based, to no little extent, upon our zeal in caring for the intellectual and moral advancement of our people, as well as upon our many sources of wealth. Our State Historical Society occupies an enviable position among kindred societies everywhere; and I sincerely trust no short-sighted, sordid motive will prevent the prompt enforcement of an enlightened policy toward it on the part of the legislature.

Hon. John C. Spooner writes: I regard the Historical Society as an institution invaluable to the state. I approve fully the proposition to appeal to the legislature for a fire-proof building.

Gen. J. J. Guppy and C. C. Britt, vice-presidents of the society, write: Knowing, as we do, the over-crowded condition of the Historical Society's rooms, we earnestly hope the legislature will make liberal provision for a new building for the society and its noble collections.

Hon. D. L. Downs writes: I am much in favor of asking the legislature to make an appropriation for a building for the use of the State Historical Society. In view of the past rapid growth of the society, and its present importance, it seems entirely proper to me, that a building should be erected, with reference to future additions as the wants of the society may demand them. I think an appropriation of not less than $100,000 should be asked for, payable in two or three annual payments, as may be deemed most advisable.

Hon. Edward O'Neil writes: As a citizen of Wisconsin, I feel proud of the invaluable treasures of the Historical Society, and believe it to be the imperative duty of the state to provide, without delay, a suitable building for its accommodation and security.

Hon. John Luchsinger writes: After spending so much labor and money in making the collections of the Historical Society, it is manifestly the wise thing to do, to provide a safe and commodious building for these treasures; and I trust we may soon see them housed in a manner worthy their value and magnitude.

Hon. Edwin Hyde writes: I fully approve of the project for a new building for the Historical Society, and I sincerely trust the legislature will make such provision for it that the edifice may be an honor to the great state of Wisconsin.

Hon. Geo. W. Bird writes: The move to provide a new building for the Historical Society meets with general approval here. It is almost cruel to allow the valuable accumulations of the society to remain in the unsatisfactory and exposed condition they are at present. Should they be destroyed, as they may be, the people would hold their representatives responsible for the irreparable injury, and no excuse for retrenchment of expenses would then avail. The people are so fully alive to the reasonable requirements of the society, that I have no doubt the legislature will early meet their wishes by making a liberal appropriation for a new building for the society.

Samuel Marshall, Esq., one of the society's vice presidents, writes: The state should make a sufficient appropriation to erect a substantial fire-proof building for the historical society, large enough for the present and the future. The university being at Madison is an additional reason why the state should provide an adequate library building for the society, as the students so largely consult the collection.

Hon. Charles L. Colby writes: I heartily approve the design of appealing to the legislature for a suitable building for the historical society, and trust that success may attend the effort.

Hon. Levi M. Vilas writes: I shall take pleasure in assisting, when I can, to obtain proper provision for the preservation of the invaluable property of the historical society.

Hon. Cyrus Woodman, formerly of Wisconsin, and one of the honorary vice presidents of the society, writes: If it should be necessary for the state to expend $100,000 for a suitable building for the State Historical Society, I know of no way in which it can be better spent for the honor of the state, and the good of its inhabitants. The library is a very valuable one, and it is constantly and rapidly increasing in value, and is already a noble monument of the liberality of the state and of individuals. It needs a building erected expressly for it, and so constructed that additions may be made as they shall be needed. It should be entirely fire-proof. The library is already much more than a mere historical collection. I hope that it is destined to become a great treasure-house of books meeting the wants not only of the Historical Society, but of the state and of the university.

A new building for the society would attract larger and more valuable donations than any it has ever received, for then the donors would feel that their gifts would be secure and so be of benefit for ages to come. Many individuals decline to make valuable donations to an institution which cannot place them in a fire-proof building. Such a library as you would be sure to gather in such a building, would, at no distant day, attract great attention abroad, as well as at home; would excite the admiration of strangers, and be the just pride of every citizen of the state. The state has already acted so generously towards the society, that I have strong hopes that it will soon provide for it such a home as it needs and deserves. Directly or indirectly, the influence of a great library reaches all classes, and becomes a blessing alike to the rich and poor, to the learned and unlearned.

J. Fletcher Williams, Esq., author of the able history of St. Paul, and secretary of the Minnesota Historical Society, writes: Press the matter of your fire-proof building without ceasing. Since our fire, I tremble for the safety of your splendid collection. In the event of its destruction, what should we say of the state, so liberal in the accumulation of that library, museum, etc., the pride of the northwest, and yet so indifferent to the safety of these treasures?

To committee on State Affairs.

By Mr. Keyes:

Pet. No. 18, A.,

Memorial of the Editorial Association of Wisconsin and others for the construction of a suitable building for the State Historical Society.

To the honorable, the legislature of Wisconsin:

The undersigned, members of the Wisconsin Editorial Association, respectfully ask the legislature of Wisconsin to provide for safe and ample accommodations for the invaluable collections of the State Historical Society, brought together with so much care, foresight and expense; and which has justly become the pride of our whole people.

In our opinion, a commodious fire proof building is not only an imperative necessity, but a need that is recognized by the citizens of Wisconsin, who would rejoice to see early and ample provision made for the society and its collections. The society is, in our judgment, doing a good work — one which has aided materially in placing Wisconsin in the forefront of her sister states of the northwest; and its collections should be placed in safe and adequate quarters, where the literary and historical treasures of this popular and useful institution, may be better preserved, and made more conveniently accessible to all our people.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Executive Department,
MADISON, January 30, 1882

To the honorable, the legislature:

I have the honor to call your attention to the condition of affairs during the past four days, on the line of the Chicago, Portage & Superior Railroad, at Superior Junction and Superior City, and to give you a history of the action taken by this department in relation thereto.

The first that was known here of any threaten disturbance on the part of the laborers on what is known here as the "Air Line Road," was the dispatch received January 26, of which the following is a copy:

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, January 26, 1882.

Governor Rusk, Madison:

The men on this end of the Portage & Superior road are taking everything within their reach. We are powerless to protect our property against seven hundred men who have neither money nor means of subsistence. They threaten to burn houses and destroy everything here. We appeal to you for protection; can you send relief?

WALKER, JUDD & VEAZIE.

To which I replied as follows:

MADISON, January 26, 1882.

Walker, Judd & Veazie, Superior Junction, Wis.:

Your dispatch received; notify men to do no damage. Supplies will be sent at once and transportation furnished all who desire to come out. Telegraph condition again to-day.

And at the same time I directed Mr. Winter, of the Chicago, Saint Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railroad to send provisions to Superior Junction, and to furnish transportation to St. Paul and other points where work could be procured, to all the men who would come away, and he proceeded to make such arrangements.

The next morning I received the following dispatches:

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, Wis., Jan. 26, 1882.

Governor Rusk:

Men decline to leave; they are forcibly using our supplies and make demand for beef and pork. which they got; say they must have their pay before they leave here, or they will burn the bridges and destroy the track. Are we to understand that you are going to allow them to use our supplies, and if we refuse they will burn us out? They undertook to hang two of our watchmen last night.

WALKER, JUDD & VEAZIE.

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, Jan. 26, 1882.

Governor Rusk:

See Veazie's telegram. We need two hundred well armed men to protect property and preserve order here and at the camps. Subsistence can be had here if they come quickly.

J. W. DINSMORE.

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, Jan. 26.

Governor Rusk:

Veazie has shown me your telegram offering transportation to Air Line men. When can you send train to take five hundred to Madison?

B. PETTING.

To these dispatches I replied as follows to Mr. Petting, directing that a copy be given to Walker, Judd & Veazie:

MADISON, Jan. 27, 1882.

H. Petting, Superior Junction, Wis.:

Transportation, I am advised, will be furnished to men to St. Paul, and places where they can get work. Their claims, if collectible, can be collected. No transportation will be furnished them to Madison. There must be no violence or mob law. The power of the state will be used to protect persons and property.

Later — On the 27th of January, I received the following, which was probably sent before my dispatch had been received:

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, Jan. 27, 1882.

Gov. Rusk:

A large number of men are at the track, anxious to hear your reply to my request for transportation to Madison. Are they to be paid for labor on the Air Line, and when?

H. PETTING

On the morning of the 28th I received the information from the railroad company that they could only induce five or six of the laborers to come away; and I then, by telegraph, asked Walker, Judd & Veazie the condition of affairs, but to which I got no reply.

I also received during the 28th, the following dispatch:

SUPERIOR JUNCTION, Wis., January 28, 1882.

J. M. RUSK:

Tell us if we can get our pay, and from whom.

AIR LINE LABORERS.

And answered it as follows:

Air Line Laborers, Superior Junction, Wisconsin:

I do not know what the Air Line Company can do or will do as to your pay. It is not wise, in my judgment, for you to stay there expecting speedy payment. I think you should appoint a committee to look after your legal rights, and then go to work as soon as possible wherever work can be found. This will not affect your rights, and you can gain nothing by staying there in idleness. I have requested the railroad company to furnish you transportation to St. Paul and such other places as will probably afford you opportunity to get work. I shall do what I properly can in protecting your legal rights. You must, in any event, maintain order and respect the persons and property rights of all. The state will not permit any violation of these rights.

My advices since are that the men are there, but that they are now peaceable and quiet, and that only forty or fifty have come away. During this time they have used some provisions belonging to Messrs. Walker, Judd and Veazie, besides what have been furnished upon my request by the railroad company, but to what extent I have no information.

On 27th of January, I asked Hon. S. H. Clough if there was any danger of mob violence at Superior City, and on the 28th received the following telegram from there:

SUPERIOR, Wis., January 28, 1882.

Governor Rusk:

We are subsisting about five hundred men, a force largely outnumbering us. We can't stop feeding them unless we have protection. A messenger has been sent to you.

S. H. CLOUGH,
VINCENT RAY,
HIRAM HATCH.

On the evening of the 29th, Mr. Burhaus, their special messenger, arrived here, and I annex hereto a copy of the letter he brought from the authorities of Superior City.

I directed Mr. Burhaus to notify the people of Superior City to continue feeding these men till work could be obtained or some further relief determined upon; that they should keep the saloons closed, and that it would be almost impossible to afford them relief by the employment of the state militia.

This is now the condition of affairs at these two points, and I have called your attention to these matters in detail that you might have all the facts before you, and take such action as in your judgment the urgent and immediate necessities require. The authorities cannot for any great length of time continue to furnish supplies to this multitude of discontented men, even if they should continue to peaceably acquiesce in their doing so, of which there is great doubt.

I also call your attention to the fact that some provision should be made to meet the expenses, so necessarily incurred, the amount of which, however, I am unable at present to estimate, although they cannot yet be large.

I also venture to suggest that if the legislature shall transfer the grant applicable to the road from Superior Junction to the west end of Lake Superior, to any company, it would be wise, under existing circumstances, to require such company to provide funds for the immediate payment of these laborers, and to reimburse the state for any expenses incurred in taking care of these men in this emergency.

I feel constrained to urge upon the legislature some prompt action in the premises.

J. M. RUSK.

SUPERIOR, Wis., January, 27, 1882.

To His Excellency, J. M. Rusk, Governor of the State of Wisconsin:

A large number of men — from seven to eight hundred, it is estimated — who have come from the line of the Chicago, Portage & Superior Railway, without means generally, and with unpaid claims for labor against the construction company, are gathered at this place, and are now being supported by the county, the authorities of which are endeavoring to prevail on them to go out on to the line of the Northern Pacific, and to other points where they can get work. The men demand to be supported here for an indefinite time, such as may suit their own convenience, many of them apparently having the purpose to remain until some arrangement satisfactory to them shall be made for paying them for their labor. The authorities and good citizens here are doing all they can to conciliate the crowd, and to tide over the present crisis, but it is believed, nevertheless, that the emergency is serious and full of danger, and that property, public and private, and the safety, and even the lives of citizens, may be in jeopardy. It is reported that threats have been made of burning the railroad bridge of both the Air Line and Omaha railroads, and also the county court house. These men are emboldened by their perfect understanding of the fact that our community is isolated, and that communication between here and the capital of the state is comparatively slow. In fact, they know our comparative helplessness in case of a violent outbreak, and knowing it also ourselves, we are compelled to ask your excellency to provide an adequate force for our protection, promptly upon the very first application which we may make for that purpose through Mr. Burhaus, who bears this letter, and goes fully accredited from this place to represent to you the situation here, and to act constantly as a medium of communication between yourself and the people here.

Immediate preparation is urged upon your excellency, looking to the contingency of a notification from here that troops will be needed. With great respect,

Your obedient servants,

H. B. SHAW,

Chairman of Supervisors.

R. B. McLEAN,

URGELLE GOUGE,

Supervisors.

LEWIS C. THOMPSON,

Sheriff.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Executive Department,
MADISON, January 30, 1882.

To the honorable, the legislature:

In compliance with the request therein contained, I have the honor to transmit herewith a communication of General W. B. Hazen, chief signal officer U. S. A., dated January 23, 1882, together with the memorandum therein contained, for your information.

J. M. RUSK.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Office of the Chief Signal Officer,
WASHINGTON CITY, January 23, 1882.

Hon. J. M. RUSK, Governor of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin:

SIR — I have the honor to invite your attention to my communication of April 11, 1881, on the subject of establishing a state weather service in accordance with the inclosed memorandum, and to request that you call the attention of the legislature to the importance of the proposed plan, in order that such action as is deemed suitable may be taken.

I am very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. HAZEN,
Brig. and Brt. Maj. Gen'l, Chief Signal Officer, U. S. A.

MEMORANDUM.

The object of a state weather service should be to observe and utilize every feature of the weather that affects the prosperity of the inhabitants of the state as to crops, health, life, etc., etc., omitting, perhaps, only those few items already provided for by the general government at Washington, such as general storm predictions. The state service is, therefore, essentially a plan for gathering and utilizing local climatic data, and eventually it will define precisely the localities most favorable or unfavorable to special crops, diseases, etc.

The chief of the state service should be in such communication with the chief signal officer of the army, that he may at any time receive from Washington and rapidly disseminate throughout his state any information of importance, such as predictions of frosts, tornadoes, floods, etc.

The state weather service may be wholly volunteer and under the charge of a director or superintendent appointed by the governor, or it may be made a part of the duties of some officer now authorized by law, as the surveyor general, the superintendent of public instruction, the president of the state college, scientific school, agricultural college, etc., etc. The observer in each county may be a voluntary observer, or it may be made part of the duty of some county officer to make the daily record and monthly report.

Observations should be taken, if possible, at all state, county and municipal offices and institutions, such as jails, asylums, hospitals, libraries, toll-gate keepers, surveyors, colleges and high schools, water works, canal lock-keepers, etc., etc.

The instruments used should, when practicable, be of uniform patterns, carefully tested before use by comparison with known standards, and should include at least one maximum and minimum thermometer, one dew-point or other hygrometer and rain gauge, all which, with a supply of blanks and stamped envelopes for one year, need not cost more than $15.00 per station.

The director should be fully impressed with the importance of the work and should issue each month a review of the weather, as obtained from the state observations; this review to be furnished to each county paper for publication, and to each observer within ten days after the close of the month.

The chief signal officer will be pleased to furnish sample forms, instructions for taking observations, price list of standard instruments, and to give any information relative to this subject which the experience of the signal service may afford, and, as an illustration of the action already taken by some of the states, a copy of the law establishing the weather service of the state of Iowa is herewith enclosed:

AN ACT to establish a central station of the Iowa "Weather Service" and for the appointment of a direction thereof. (Laws XVII general assembly, state of Iowa, chapter 45.)

Section 1. Be it enacted by the general assembly of the state of Iowa, that there be and hereby is established at Iowa City a central station for the Iowa weather service, with Gustavus Hinrichs as director thereof, and in case of his death or disability, his successor shall be appointed by the governor.

Section 2. The duties of said director shall be to establish volunteer weather stations throughout the state, and supervise the same; to receive reports therefrom, and reduce the same to tabular form, and report the same quarterly to the state printer for publication in the form of the Iowa weather reports.

Section 3. That the state printer be authorized to print two thousand copies of the said Iowa weather report quarterly, one thousand copies of which shall be distributed by said director, and one thousand copies delivered to the secretary of state, to be by him distributed in the same manner as other state documents.

Section 4. That there is appropriated the sum of one thousand dollars annually, or so much thereof as may be necessary, for the purpose of meeting the actual expenses in carrying out the provisions of this measure; but no part of said sum shall be used in payment of salaries to any officer or officers, except for clerk hire, and upon order of said director.

Section 5. This act, being deemed of immediate importance, shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication in the Iowa State Leader and the Iowa State Register, newspapers published at Des Moines, Iowa.

Ordered spread upon the journal, and referred to committee on State Affairs.

COMMUNICATIONS.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Department of State,
MADISON, January 28, 1882.

To the honorable, the assembly of the state of Wisconsin:

Complying with the request in Res. No. 22, A., that the secretary of state be requested to transmit to the assembly a copy of the annual report of the commission of the Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company for the year ending December 31, 1881, I have the honor to submit the annexed copy of said report.

Very respectfully,
ERNST G. TIMME,
Secretary of State.

REPORT OF COMMISSIONERS OF WISCONSIN RAILROAD FARM MORTGAGE LAND COMPANY.

OFFICE OF
WISCONSIN RAILROAD FARM MORTGAGE CO.,
CEDAR CREEK, Wis., January 1, 1882.

Hon. ERNST G. TIMME, Secretary of State:

SIR—In compliance with chapter 446 of the private and local laws of 1868, the commissioners of the Wisconsin Railroad Farm Mortgage Land Company make report:

	Acres.
The quantity of land sold during the year 1881.....	14,511.80
Remaining unsold January 1, 1882.....	7,090.55

Interest collected on land contracts.....,.....	347 00
Interest on bank deposits.....	257 67

Total	$13,678 24

DISBURSEMENTS.

Paid twenty claims for first dividend, amounting to	$1,422 25
Paid for making lists for indemnity lands for use in land grant suit	275 00
Paid for printing.....	39 75
Paid for office safe.....	75 00
Paid contingent expenses, including expenses and services of commissioners.....	2,685 44
Balance on hand January 1, 1882.....	9,175 80
Total.....	$13,678 24

There are thirty-two land contracts, on which it is estimated $2,500 may be realized; there are also a few contracts on which part payments were made, and the lands have since been abandoned. It is not anticipated that much can be realized from such contracts, or from the lands so forfeited.

CLAIMS AND DIVIDENDS.

Previous to the 1st day of January, 1881, nine hundred and eighty-one claims were proved, and admitted to the list filed in the office of the secretary of state. These claims represent the sum lost by the farm mortgagors to be $1,282,338.47. During the year 1881, under the provisions of chapter 113, laws of 1881, nine additional claims have been proved, representing $6,387.40, making total number of claims proved nine hundred and ninety, representing $1,288,725.87. The amount required to pay a six per cent. dividend on these claims is $77,323.55. The number of first dividends paid up to January 1, 1882, is nine hundred and eighteen; the aggregate sum paid therefor is $74,514.51.

There remains unpaid 72 claims for first dividend, amounting to $2,809.04, which are being paid on the application of parties entitled thereto. Settlement of land litigation and second dividend: The suit claim of the Farm Mortgage Company for indemnity lands has been settled, for which the company has received pay as follows:

August 13, 1881.....	$40,000 00
September 13, 1881.....	40,000 00
October 6, 1881	80,000 00
Total.....	$160,000 00
December 31 1881, received interest on bank deposits	902 07
Total receipt to January 1, 1882	$160,902 00

DISHURSEMENTS.

Paid expenses of litigation	$10,000 00
Paid 573 claims for second dividend.....	77,992 33
Balance on hand January 1, 1882	72,909 67
Total.....	$160,902 00

The sum realized from the settlement of the claim for indemnity lands, after payment of the expenses of the litigation, was $150,000, which was set apart for the payment of a second dividend. The payment of such dividend commenced immediately after the money was received as above stated. The work is still progressing and payments are made promptly on application of parties entitled to receive the same. Some of the original claimants have died whose estates have been settled without an administration, rendering it necessary to determine who are justly entitled to the dividend. For the purpose of expediting payments in such cases, the commissioners recommend that the county courts be empowered to appoint an administrator without publication of the notice required in the settlements of estates.

It is believed that a few names have been erroneously admitted to the list now on file in the office of the secretary of state, which the commissioners ask authority to correct. Chapter 113, laws of 1881, extends the time for proving and filing claims till the first day of October, 1882. The commissioners believe this to be an unreasonable extension of time. The original act gave three years for proving and filing claims. Due notice was given of such time as required by said act, and ample opportunity was given for claimants to make their proofs; in fact many declined to present their claims because they believed the lands donated were not of sufficient value to realize enough to make a dividend, that would reimburse them for time and expense of making their proofs and filing their claim. Under this act only a trifle of over $950,000 was filed, but four years after the time had expired, and when the commissioners had commenced the payment of six per cent. dividend, application was made for an extension of time for making proof and filing additional claims, and the legislature has extended the time from year to year, until the first dividend fund is so nearly exhausted that the commissioners cannot anticipate payment of the first dividend of six per cent. on claims that have been and may be hereafter filed under the laws passed at the last session of the legislature. Since the commencement of the payment of the second dividend and up to 1st day of January, 1882, claims have been presented amounting in the aggregate to $64,636.00. It cannot now be ascertained what amount of claims may be filed if the time be continued till the first of October next. For these reasons it was not safe to declare a second dividend greater than 10 per cent. It may also be just and necessary to confine the claims proved under last extension to the ten per cent. dividend, until it can be ascertained whether or not a further dividend can be paid on claims filed under chapter 113 of the laws of 1881. It is impossible to determine whether or not a third can be made, so long as the law allows new claims to be admitted to the list.

The commissioners therefore recommend that the law authorizing the admission of new claims be amended so as to limit the time of filing claims until the first day of May next.

The transactions of the affairs of this company since its organization have been annually reported to your office.

We desire to thank you and your predecessors for the prompt and efficient manner in which all communications relating thereto have been answered.

In conclusion, the commissioners desire to tender their thanks to farm mortgagors for their numerous letters of encouragement received during the long and perplexing litigation which has just been settled, and also for their approbation and assurances of confidence in the management of the affairs of the company.

Respectfully submitted,

D. W. MAXON,
JOHN STEINER,

COMMUNICATIONS.

The speaker laid before the assembly the following communication:

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Treasurer's Office,
MADISON, February 14, 1882.

Hon. F. L. Gilson, speaker of the assembly:

In response to resolution No. 36, A.: "Resolved, That the state treasurer be and is hereby requested to furnish this house on or before the opening of the session of Tuesday morning next, a statement showing the amount of money in the treasury belonging to what is known as the St. Croix railroad trespass fund; that is to say, the amount of money derived on account of trespass upon the lands included in the contemplated grant in senate bill No. 34, now remaining in the treasury; I have the honor to report that the records of this office furnish no evidence from which it can be ascertained from what particular lands the money was collected. I have, however, sought information from a report made by Hon. J. B. Cassoday, now supreme judge, while acting as master in chancery in 1879, and having the subject under consideration, and the reports of timber agents, and find that the amount in the trespass fund collected from these lands, not in conflict with lands claimed to have been earned by other companies by the construction of road, does not exceed twenty-four thousand dollars. The moneys collected from lands in conflict and which are claimed to be owned by other railroad companies amount to nine thousand six hundred and twenty dollars and nine cents ($9,620.09).

Respectfully,

E. C. McFETRIDGE,
State Treasurer.

THOS. J. SHEAR,
Chairman.

The undersigned, minority of the committee on Charitable and Penal Institutions, asks leave to submit a brief report, stating his reasons for dissenting from the report of the majority in recommending the indefinite postponement of the following bills, viz:

Nos. 221, A, 160, A., 180, A., 27, S., 194, A., and 150, A.

The object of all these bills is to provide room, at the expense of the state, for the chronic insane.

No. 150, A., provides for the enlargement of the existing state hospitals, and 194, A., for the enlargement of the Milwaukee county asylum.

The other four bills provide for the construction of new buildings in the northwestern portion of the state. In response to a note addressed to the secretary of the state board of charities and reform on the 31st ult., that officer states that there were, on September 30, 1881, in the state hospitals, 999 insane; in the Milwaukee county asylum, 255; in poor houses, 385; in jails, 60; boarded out, 74; total, 1,773. From this statement it appears that 445 are now confined in jails and poor houses; that 1,254 are comfortably cared for in the Milwaukee county asylum and state hospitals. The condition of the 74 boarded out is not stated.

The undersigned believes it the duty of the state to provide for all its insane as speedily as possible. That all should be treated alike; that all should be under one management. That the people are able and willing to care for them at state expense; that the people have more confidence in a state institution than any system controlled by county authorities; that the insane can be better cared for and at less expense by the state than by the counties.

It is claimed by the majority that the chronic insane can and will be provided for very soon by the counties; that some of the counties are preparing to build asylums for the chronic insane, and that during this year sufficient room will be provided for those not now provided for, and that they can be supported for less expense by counties than by the state. If no further provision is made by the state at this session of the legislature, some of the most populous counties may be compelled to adopt this system, but the new and sparsely settled counties, which are unable to build county asylums, must provide for their insane elsewhere. The question of how cheap the insane can be supported in county asylums ought not to govern the policy of the state. The passage of either one of the bills (which are reported by the majority of the committee for indefinite postponement) would provide room for the humane care of all the insane in the state which are not already provided for.

Bill No. 150, A., provides for the enlargement of the existing state institutions and the Milwaukee asylum to such an extent as will make room for all the insane in the state which are now in jails and poor houses. These institutions are now well organized, and would require a comparatively small sum to increase their capacity sufficient to meet the wants of the state. By increasing the population of these institutions, the per capita cost of maintenance would be reduced. As an evidence of this fact, the undersigned submits the following:

Extract from report of board of trustees of the Willard Insane Asylum, for the annual report of 1880, page 30:

YEAR.	Daily average No. of patients.	Average weekly cost.
1872	564	$3 15
1873	727	3 00
1874	827	3 09
1875	938	2 96
1876	1,076	2 83
1877	1,227	2 87
1878	1,340	2 71
1879	1,430	2 63

This institution was built in 1869, by the state of New York. Its present capacity is 1,800 patients. It would seem that the state of Wisconsin would act wisely to follow the example of the older states who have had experience on this subject, especially in view of the foregoing statistics of one of the best asylums on the continent.

The majority of the committee determined but a few hours since to report the indefinite postponement of these bills, hence but little time has been given the undersigned to prepare the foregoing, but in view of the importance of the subject, would recommend the reference of all these bills to a joint select committee for further consideration.

Respectfully submitted,
D. W. MAXON,
Minority of Committee.

WILLIAM S. GRUBB,
Committee.

So ordered.

The undersigned, a majority of the select committee to whom was referred

M. C. No. 10, A.,

A memorial of the Wisconsin State Prohibitory Amendment Association in favor of the submission of an amendment to the constitution, prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating beverages,

Have considered the same, and report it back with a resolution in accordance with the prayer thereof, and recommend the passage of said resolution.

In support of the recommendation that said resolution shall receive the favorable consideration of this legislature, would present the report of the majority of the committee of the session of 1879, believing that the right and the duty to so submit this question that it needs no further argument in support of such recommendation, as the law or the logic of that report has never yet been, and as your committee believes never can be, successfully attacked or seriously questioned.

If this was a proposition to place upon the statute books a law prohibiting the traffic in intoxicating liquors, any argument for or against the proposed measure would be germane to the subject; and while your committee would court an argument on that subject at any proper time, before this legislature, or any other body of respectable and intelligent citizens, this is not the time nor this the place to present any argument upon the propriety or impropriety, the practicability or impracticability of either passing or enforcing prohibitory enactments, as these questions do not come within the scope of the resolution under consideration.

The only questions for us to determine are:

1st. Can this legislature provide for a submission to the people the question of placing in the state constitution a clause prohibiting the manufacture and traffic in intoxicating liquors; and

2d. If the legislature has the right to so submit the question, should they do so.

To the first proposition, your committee have no hesitation in answering affirmatively, and are sustained in that opinion by the following arguments:

The right to prohibit is conceded by every civilized nation on the globe, as for centuries they have legislated to restrain and control the traffic, and the right to circumscribe and control, presupposes the right to entirely prohibit.

Judge Taney said: "If any state deems the internal traffic in ardent spirits injurious to its citizens, and calculated to produce idleness, vice and debauchery, I see nothing in the constitution (of the U. S.) to prevent it from regulating and restraining the traffic, or from prohibiting it altogether if it thinks proper."

Judge Woodbury says "That the state may seize and destroy anything which is likely to cause disease and death."

"Whatever threatens the state must be resisted."

"The power essential to self-preservation exists in every organized community."

"Men and states may resist that which approaches to do it harm"

If, then, Judge Taney and Judge Woodbury are to be taken as good authority on constitutional law, and if it can be shown that the article of traffic to be prohibited, "either endangers the state" or is "injurious to its citizens," or "calculated to produce idleness, or vice, or debauchery," or "cause disease or death," then it is clear that the "state may resist it," that "it may restrain or contract it," or "may prohibit it altogether."

Your committee believe that the use of alcoholic beverages is undeniably and inevitably injurious to an overwhelmingly large majority of our citizens who use it — that it is destructive of the general welfare. It increases taxes, it educates criminals, it endangers life, it endangers property, it destroys public morals, it blasts character, it destroys the nice sense of honor that should be felt by and govern the conduct of our public men, and that it is a reproach to our civilization.

That it hangs like an incubus on labor; robs industry of its reward; produces pauperism and crime.

That it is a public evil, affecting every citizen, every industrial interest, and injuriously approaches every citizen, every family, every community, and the entire commonwealth.

Commissioner Delano estimated the consumption of distilled spirits at 80,000,000 gallons in 1869; and by the census reports we learn there was produced in the United States 90,412,581 gallons of domestic spirits in the year 1860. The estimated retail cost of alcoholic drinks in 1872, was $785,720,048; and from 1860 to 1872 — thirteen years — 2,762,926,066 gallons were consumed, at a cost of $6,780,161,805. The annual consumption of distilled spirits is not less than 100,000,000 gallons.

Dr. Young estimates the annual cost of alcoholic drinks in this country at $800,000,000.

There are 600,000 habitual drunkards, and 98,000 persons constantly disabled by the use of intoxicants. It creates each year an army of 9,338 maniacs, and 120,000 persons are annually left widowed or orphaned and dependent on the public charity by this traffic.

The United States commissioner of education says that "from 80 to 90 per cent. of our criminals connect the causes of their crime with intemperance."

An English judge says: "Every crime has its origin, more or less, in drunkenness."

Hon. J. C. Park, of Massachusetts, declares that "ninety-nine one hundredths of all crimes spring from intemperance."

The chaplain of the state prison of Massachusetts testifies that "nineteen-twentieths of the crimes committed by those under his care arose from the use of alcoholic drinks."

Senator Morrill, of Maine, on the floor of the United States senate, spoke of the liquor traffic as "the gigantic crime of crimes."

Hon. Noah Davis, chief justice of the supreme court of New York, in an address delivered in New York, December 17, 1878, said: "But among all causes of crime, intemperance stands out as the 'unapproachable chief.' That habits of intemperance are the chief cause of crime, is the testimony of all judges of large experience. More than two hundred years ago, Sir Matthew Hale, the chief justice of England, to whom as a writer and judge we are greatly indebted for our criminal law, speaking on this subject, said: 'The places of judicature I have long held in this kingdom have given me an opportunity to observe the original cause of most of the enormities that have been committed for the space of nearly twelve years, and by due observation, I have found that if the murders and manslaughters, the burglaries and robberies, the riots and tumults, the adulteries, fornications, rapes and other enormities that have happened in that time, were divided into five parts, four of them have been the issue and product of excessive drinking—of tavern and ale-house drinking.'

Leaping over two hundred years of English history and jurisprudence, I call one other eminent judge of great experience to testify. Lord Chief Baron Kelly, perhaps the oldest judge now on the English bench, says in a letter to the arch-deacon of Canterbury: 'Two-thirds of the crimes which come before the courts of law of this country are occasioned chiefly by intemperance.'

It is established beyond argument, by official statistics, by the experience of courts, and by the observation of enlightened philanthropists, that the prevalence of intemperance in every country is the standard by which its crimes may be measured."

It is estimated that 400 suicides and 5,000 murders annually result from intemperance.

This mournful array of facts and figures might be multiplied indefinitely, but enough has been shown to convince any candid man that this evil does "threaten the state" does "produce crime," is "injurious to our citizens," does "produce illness, vice, and debauchery," and hence the state "has the right to regulate, restrain, or altogether prohibit it if it thinks proper."

Judges McLean, Canton, Daniel and Grier, in cases of Sam'l Thurlow v. Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Joel Fletcher, v. The State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and Andrew and Thomas Pierce v. The State of New Hampshire, all causes tried in the United States supreme court, all concur in the opinions of Justices Taney and Woodbury, and declare that there is nothing in the constitution of the United States to prevent a state from either regulating, controlling or entirely prohibitting the traffic in intoxicating liquors, and Mr. Justice Grier goes so far as to include the consumption of liquors as the proper subject of state regulation and prohibition (5 Howard, page 505).

Justice Bennett, of the supreme court of Vermont, in case of Russell H. Lincoln v. Franklin Smith and others, 27 Vermont reports, page 828, reiterates the same doctrine.

In the case of People v. Hawley, 3 Mich. 342, the supreme court says: "In the exercise of its police powers the state has full power to prohibit, under penalties, the exercise of any trade or employment which is found to be hazardous or injurious to its citizens and destructive to the best interests of society, without providing compensation to those upon whom the prohibition operates."

In the case of Austin v. The State, 10th Missouri, page 593, the court says: "It is equally true that the state legislature have the power, unless there be something in their own constitution to prohibit it, of entirely abolishing or placing under restrictions any trade or profession which they may deem expedient."

The right of the legislature to prohibit the sale of intoxicating liquors is expressly held in the case of Jones v. The People, 14th Illinois, page 196.

The supreme court of Georgia, in 18th Vol., page 586, in an elaborate opinion, in which cases are cited and commented upon, affirm the same action.

This subject was fully discussed in all its constitutional bearings, and all the American cases cited and commented upon in the case of South et al. v. The State, 2 Iowa Reports, page 189, and the conclusion is reached in a very exhaustive opinion that there is no constitutional objection to the right of the legislature to pass prohibitory liquor laws.

The following are the other cases in which the same doctrine is held:

25 Connecticut, page 290.

29 Connecticut, page 487.

It has been claimed that the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States contains provisions that would render all state laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors unconstitutional. Whatever may have been the fact previous to the adoption of this amendment, Mr. Justice Bradley, in rendering the decision of the United States supreme court, in an appeal taken from the supreme court of Massachusetts, rendered after the ratification of the fourteenth amendment, affirms in very distinct and unmistakable terms the right of a state to enact laws "prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors."

The court declares: "If the public safety or the public morals require the discontinuance of any manufacture or traffic, the hand of the legislature cannot be stayed from providing for its discontinuance, by any incidental inconvenience which individuals or corporations may suffer. All rights are held subject to the police power of the state."

The plaintiff in error takes the ground that, being a corporation, it has a right, by contract, to manufacture and sell beer forever, notwithstanding, and in spite of any exigencies which may occur in the morals or health of the community requiring such manufacture to cease. We do not so understand the rights of the plaintiff. The legislature has no power to confer any such right.

Whatever differences of opinion may exist as to the extent and boundaries of the police power, and however difficult it may be to render a satisfactory definition of it, there seems to be no doubt that it does extend to the protection of the lives, health and property of the citizens, and to the preservation of good order and the public morals.

Since we have already held (in a former case) that as a measure of police regulation, looking to the preservation of public morals, a state law prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors is not repugnant to any clause of the constitution of the United States, we see nothing in the present case that can afford any sufficient ground for disturbing the decision of the supreme court of Massachusetts."

But we are not compelled to rely upon the opinions of the distinguished jurists Taney, Woodbury, McLean, Caton, Daniel, Grier and Bradley, of the supreme court of the United States, nor yet upon the very learned Justice Bennett, of the supreme court of Vermont, as our supreme court of Wisconsin has declared, in the State ex rel. Henshell v. Ludington, 38d vol. Wis. Reports, page 107, that "the legislature, as an exercise of the police power, may entirely prohibit the selling or giving away of ardent or intoxicating liquors to be used as a beverage."

Other authorities might be cited to support the proposition that the state may entirely "prohibit the traffic in intoxicating liquors, except for medicinal or art purposes."

The next question to be considered is, Should this legislature submit the question to the people, or take such measures as it can to allow the voters of the state to decide what shall be the future policy of the state upon this subject?

Your committee believe it should, and submit the following as some of the reasons for such belief:

All power is inherent in the people. Legislators are the representatives or agents of the people, and when uninstructed, are governed in their official action by their convictions of the correct line of policy to pursue for the best interests of the state at large, subject only to the constitution.

Every government on the globe that is republican in form that is of, and for the people, has and does recognize the right of petition, and the right of the people to petition their agents being admitted, the duty of the agent to respect and to grant the prayer of the petitioner or resign his agency is es-established, provided the thing or measure of relief asked for is not clearly and undeniably destructive of some well established principle of constitutional law.

In this instance 18,000 voters have in a respectful manner asked this legislature not to legislate upon the question of temperance, but to provide the machinery by which the voters of the state may settle it in accordance with the will of the majority.

This they ask, and nothing more.

Looking back over our state's history, we find that in 1862 the legislature submitted the question of an amendment to the constitution providing for an increased salary of the governor, which was voted down.

In 1872 they submitted to the people an amendment to the constitution to increase the number of judges of the supreme court, which was voted down.

In 1852 the banking law was submitted; in 1858, 1861, 1866, 1868, 1876, amendments to the constitution were submitted by the legislature to the people for their settlement, and in 1853 a prohibitory liquor law was submitted to the people by the legislature; and in the above nine cases it is safe to say that the whole number of petitions aggregated less in number than are asking the adoption of this resolution.

So that if we are governed by either precedent or principle, the conclusion comes home to us irresistibly, that, if we would be true to the principle that the people should rule, that the popular will is the source of all political power, that we are the agents of the people, and not their masters, we must send the question back to them for settlement by the passage of this resolution.

Your committee believe that the primary object of all governments should be the protection of its citizens from whatever harm may menace them, so far as practicable, and that in obedience to that principle a large majority of the best rules laid down for the well-being of society is predicated; and inasmuch as men can be found bold and reckless enough to deny that the liquor traffic is destructive of both national and individual prosperity and happiness, it is the primary duty of the state to lessen, if it cannot entirely destroy it.

But we are told that it cannot pass the ordeal of popular judgment and receive a majority vote.

This can only be known by a trial upon such submission, and if it fails no harm can come of such failure to either party or interest.

Again we are told that if it should pass and become a part of the fundamental law of the state, it could not be enforced.

Your committee are unwilling to conclude that the friends of the traffic are so unrepugnant in sentiment, and so recklessly wedded to an appetite, that they would willingly and wantonly rebel against a law which must be clearly established as the will of the majority before it can have any binding force, nor are they willing to believe that a majority of the voters, backed by the co-operation of that grand army of our best citizens who (to our shame) are not voters, are unable to enforce this law as well as any other law on our statute books against any other crime.

Your committee, in closing this report, desire to say that in recommending the adoption of the resolution under consideration, they do not commit themselves, or their friends, or their party for or against the idea that prohibition crystallized into a law would be beneficial or injurious to the people, as that is not a question for them or this legislature to decide at this time, or by their action upon this resolution, but that it is the right of the state to adopt such policy on this subject as it may think proper; but that the legislature may and ought to adopt this resolution, that a settlement of this question may be decided by a majority of the voters of the state in their own way seems to be so plain that further argument is unnecessary.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. T. PARRY,
JAMES H. CABANIS,

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED.

By Mr. Harrington:

Jt. Res. No. 21, A.,

WHEREAS, The continued and unhappy condition of the people of Ireland, occasioned by the misgovernment of England, has now culminated in a gigantic political agitation in which the whole Irish nation and race are arrayed as one body against the continuance of the tyranny of a rule of aliens; and

WHEREAS, The objects sought to be accomplished by the Irish people, of which one-fifth of our own population is composed, are perfectly in accord with the grand principles of this republic; and

WHEREAS, England herself has constantly and invariably shown active sympathy with nations struggling against other tyrants, both by moral and material support, as for example, with Poles, Hungarians, Italians, etc., and has done this within the halls of her parliament; and

WHEREAS, All civilized people now recognize the right of all races to autonomy, Therefore, Resolved by the assembly, the senate concurring, That we sympathize with the Irish race in its efforts to attain complete possession of its own land for the use of its own people, and that we sympathize with the Irish people in seeking to become self governed; and we hereby express our deepest gratitude to all those who have become leaders in the holy cause of Irish liberty.

Resolved, That we regard with severe reprehension the continued attempt on the part of England to put Irish patriotism under ban. We denounce the imprisonment of the chosen leaders of the Irish people, without the ordinary process of law common to all civilization. We arraign the English government for the wanton cruelties inflicted upon helpless and unarmed men, women and children at the hands of savage soldiery, and for the barbarous practices pursued in this relentless struggle against the rights of a naturally free people, practices which England has herself condemned when wrought by Turks and Russians; and

Resolved, That we pray England to pause in her present course, to grant to Ireland the common rights of constitutional law which have with slight exceptions been withheld during the whole of this century, to withdraw her troops from Irish soil and to take such measures as will result in giving to Ireland self government.

Referred to committee on Federal Relations, and ordered printed.

COMMUNICATION.

MADISON, March 2, 1882.

Hon. F. L. Gilson, speaker of the assembly:

The undersigned, representing the daily press, at present on duty in the legislature, respectfully represent that the practice of furnishing stationery and postage stamps to reporters has degenerated into an actual abuse and brought reproach upon all of us, whether deserved or not. There is perhaps not a respectable newspaper in Wisconsin but would continue to keep representatives at the capitol, and publish the legislative proceedings, even if the stationery provisions be repealed. The entire fraternity suffers by the opportunity given alleged reporters to come here, work a few days until the stationery is secured, and then leave, not to return. The undersigned will cordially approve of a movement which will eradicate the nuisance, by striking out of section 2 of No. 18, S., all that portion relating to furnishing stationery to reporters.

Which he did in the following words:

Mr. Speaker: At the opening of the session of this assembly we placed in your hands the gavel, the emblem of control, the badge of power.

At the time many of us were comparatively strangers to you and to each other.

You assumed the trust thus conferred with doubt and diffidence.

You have presided over our deliberations for these long weeks, and now when we are about to part, your fellow members, through me, desire to testify to you our individual and collective acknowledgments of our high regard for you as a presiding officer, a sound legislator, a genial gentleman, and an honest man.

In looking back over the days of the session, we recognize the fact that under your government the most unpretending has had the same consideration of the most distinguished — that strict impartiality, unvarying courtesy and fairness has distinguished all your rulings, and to-day I voice the sentiments of the entire assembly when I say we have formed for you a warm and sincere friendship that shall last as long as memory remains.

Desiring to hold through the coming years a place among those you remember and respect, we present you this watch, hoping that as you note its movements, that you will be reminded that a hundred friends are watching your movements; rejoicing in your success, and sorrowing over your failures; that each tick of its delicate machinery but indicates a hundred heart-throbs beating with solicitude for your future success and happiness, and as its movements will have the affect to influence you in your business and social life, so will each word or act of yours influence some part of the great brotherhood of man for weal or woe; they in their turn affecting or influencing others, so that your impress will endure through all the coming centuries.

And now, Mr. Speaker, we bid you an official farewell, and we all, of every party, young and old, whether climbing up the rough acclivity of life, or slowly tottering down its sun-set slope, wish that the sun of success may still around you shine

In glittering beams, as pure and bright,
As when it first adorned the sky,
And chased from earth the shades of night.

The Speaker responded as follows:

Gentlemen of the assembly — It is with the deepest emotion that I thank you for this beautiful offering, and still more do I thank you for the gracious and eloquent words with which you have made this gift so rich; breathing as they do, and I trust as is the truth, words of the most fraternal regard, dearer to my heart than this refined gold.

It has been my fortune this winter to preside over the deliberations of the kindest assemblage of men that ever congregated beneath this dome, and it shall ever be a pleasure to me to rank them among my true and loyal friends. Gentlemen, I shall wear this token of your esteem, proud of the gift and proud of the givers, until the shadows of my life fall towards the east, and all this world is swallowed up in the great unknown, and it shall record no hour in the years to come in which I shall not hold you, every one, in the most grateful remembrance, recalling the unvarying courtesy of all the members of this assembly towards me, which has made this a most pleasant winter, and one to be stored in the treasure house of memory forever.

Gentlemen, I can only most sincerely thank you.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATIONS.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Executive Department,
MADISON, March 27, 1882.

To the honorable, the assembly:

I return herewith to the assembly, without approval, No. 460, A., entitled "an act to authorize the Wolf River Manufacturing Company to build and maintain a dam across the Little Wolf river, in Waupaca county, Wisconsin."

This bill is, in my judgment, in conflict with the provisions of section 31 of the amendment to article 4 of the constitution adopted in 1871, against special legislation. By this amendment the legislature is plainly prohibited from enacting any special or private law "for granting corporate powers or privileges except to cities." Just what are corporate powers or privileges, within the meaning of the constitution, has not, I believe, been judicially determined. Whether given powers or privileges are or are not corporate powers or privileges can hardly be determined from the nature of the powers or privileges themselves, for it is difficult to conceive of powers and privileges which cannot be as well conferred upon and enjoyed by individuals as corporations. Manifestly such powers or privileges when conferred upon individuals are not to be considered "corporate," but when conferred upon a corporation it is difficult to regard them as other than corporate. It is then, as a rule, to the character of the grantee of such powers and privileges, rather than to the nature of the powers and privileges conferred, that we are to look in determining the validity of the grant under the constitution; and it would seem that almost any power or privilege conferred by the legislature upon a corporation organized under the general laws since the adoption of the constitutional amendment is within its scope and meaning.

The Wolf River Manufacturing Company is a corporation organized under the general laws of the state in the year 1882. It does not now possess the power to dam the Little Wolf river as mentioned in this bill. The power given by this bill to this corporation is a corporate power or privilege, and as this is a special or private act, I am forced to regard it as a violation of the constitution. See Stevens Point Boom Co. vs. Reilly, 44 Wis., 300.

When a corporation is organized under the general law, it is as completely in all respects a corporation as if created by special charter, and the general law under which it is organized and exists is to all intents and purposes its charter. If the legislature may at will by special or private act confer powers and privileges upon such corporations, not possessed by them under the general laws of the state, the amendment adopted by the people for the purpose in part of eradicating the evil of special legislation is singularly inadequate to the accomplishment of the purpose for which it was made a part of the constitution.

J. M. RUSK,
Governor.

The question being, shall the bill pass notwithstanding the objections of the governor,

It was decided in the negative.

The ayes and noes being required,

The vote was as follows:

Ayes — None.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,

Executive Department,

MADISON, March 27, 1882.

To the honorable, the assembly:

I return herewith bill No. 313, A., entitled an act to change the voting place in the town of Brannan, Price county, without approval.

I have serious doubts as to the constitutionality of this bill. There is strong ground for considering it in violation of subdivision 9 of section 31 of the constitutional amendment of 1871, taken in connection with section 23, article 4, providing that the legislature "shall establish but one system of town and county government, which shall be as nearly uniform as practicable."

I am less reluctant to withhold executive approval from the measure, for the reason that it seems to me to be vicious in principle. Under the laws of this state the electors of each town have full power to designate, by a majority vote, the place for holding town meetings and general elections. If a majority of the electors of this town think public convenience would be better subserved by holding the town meetings and elections at the village of Ogema, they have ample power to so determine. If, however, a majority of the electors prefer the present voting place, upon what consideration of principle or public policy should their wishes be disregarded? Upon what theory is it that the electors of the other towns in the state should be left at liberty to select, consulting their convenience and interest, the place for holding town meetings and elections, and the power be taken entirely from the electors of the town of Brannan in Price county? The legislative policy of the state, in leaving the matter to the people interested to be determined by a majority vote, is in harmony with the principles of our government, and any bill which deprives the electors of a particular town of a right thus possessed by the electors of all the other towns of the state, I feel should not receive my approval.

J. M. RUSK,
Governor.

The question being,
Shall the bill pass notwithstanding the objections of the governor.

It was decided in the negative.

The ayes and noes being required, the vote was as follows:

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Executive Department,
MADISON, March 27, 1882.

To the honorable, the assembly:

I return herewith to the assembly without approval, bill No. 337, A., entitled "an act to change the boundaries of towns of Rock Falls and Merrill, in Lincoln county, by detaching a portion thereof and attaching it to the town of Scott, all in Lincoln county."

By subdivision 9 of section 31 of the constitutional amendment adopted in 1871, the legislature is prohibited from enacting any special or private law "for incorporating any town or village, or to amend the charter thereof." The town in question in this bill, like every other town in the state, is a corporation expressly so declared to be by the statutes. The language of the constitution recognizes the fact that towns, as well as villages, may have charters. The law, whether general or special, by or under which the town is created, and from which it derives its right to exist, and its various powers, and which points out the manner in which its powers shall be exercised, is, in my opinion, its "charter," within the meaning of the term as used in the constitution.

The supreme court in the case of Smith against Sherry, 50 Wis., page 214, in commenting upon subdivision nine, say: "We think the words 'or to amend the charter thereof,' were intended to prevent the amendment of the charters previously granted to villages by special acts, as well as those organized thereafter under the general laws. Whilst it would not be improper to use the word 'charter' to designate the organization of a village under general law, it is much more appropriate to use the word as designating a special law under which a village is organized. There is some force, therefore, in the argument that the word 'charter' used in the constitution refers to those acts incorporating villages which had been passed previous to the amendment, as well as those organizations effected under a general law." The question in the case referred to arose upon an amendment to a "village" charter, and the remarks of the court are therefore confined to such charters. But it will be noticed that the court clearly recognizes that chartered villages are not simply those which exist under special acts, but includes all which are organized under general laws.

Is the general law under which a town is organized and exists as a corporation, and from which it derives its powers, any less its charter within the meaning of the constitutional amendment, than the general law, under which a village is organized and exists, is its charter? It would seem not.

The village is no more a corporation under the law than is the town. The constitutional prohibition is as strongly directed against the "incorporation of any "town" by special act, as it is against the incorporation of villages by special acts. Does not the prohibition apply as strongly to special acts amendatory of town charters, as to village charters? Is it to be supposed that it was intended to prevent special legislation as to villages, both by way of incorporating them or regulating them, and at the same time to leave it within the power of the legislature to legislate by special or private act for every organized town in the state.

In the case of Kimball against The Town of Rosendale, 42 Wis. 415, Ryan, chief justice, commenting upon the constitutional amendment, after referring to the evils to be remedied, says: "After long endurance of such excesses of legislation the amendment of 1871 was adopted; in order, so far as it went, to confine legislation to its legitimate objects, to substitute general for special enactments, and to restore order and uniformity to municipal law. And we cannot doubt that, except so far as power over any of the nice several subjects is reserved by other provisions of the constitution, the amendment was intended to withdraw them, and does effectually withdraw them from any exercise of legislative authority over them, by private or special statutes."

This bill certainly falls within the spirit, if not the letter of the constitution as thus interpreted, and I cannot approve it. All that is sought to be accomplished by the bill can be accomplished under general laws, and if accomplished under general laws, complications as to taxation will be avoided, which might arise under this bill if it became a law.

J. M. RUSK,
Governor.

It was decided in the negative.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON APPORTIONMENT.

The committee on Apportionment, to whom was referred
Res. No. 55, A.,

In relation to interference of congressional delegation on state apportionment,

Have had the same under consideration, and have instructed me to report the same back with the recommendation that it be indefinitely postponed.

The committee are of opinion that the members of our delegation in congress ought not, because of their official position, to be precluded from expressing the opinion they entertain on questions and measures of interest to the people.

They are citizens of the state, although performing their duties beyond our borders, and the positions they occupy is very strong evidence of popular confidence in their judgment and integrity.

If the telegram set forth in the resolution was sent by the gentlemen named as signers, your committee do not discover therein any evidence of an intention or desire to dictate to the legislature, or to unduly or improperly influence its action. If genuine, it is simply an expression of the opinion of these gentlemen upon a question of public interest, upon which they, as well as all other citizens of the state, are entitled to hold and express an opinion.

Moreover, the telegram may have been in reply to one requesting their opinion upon the matter therein referred to

Your committee think the legislature ought to be very slow to impute to the distinguished gentlemen any interest inconsistent with propriety.

WM. T. PRICE,
Chairman.

Messrs. Keogh and MacBride dissenting.

The speaker informed the assembly that the chief clerk's force had the floor,

Whereupon Mr. S. J. Morse addressed the speaker as follows:

Mr. Speaker:—From time immemorial, the custom has prevailed of giving to those whom we loved some tribute of our affection.

And, sir, I have been selected to perform the very pleasant duty of presenting to a most estimable gentlemen a slight token of our appreciation of his sterling worth and his gentlemanly bearing towards us all.

Deeply regretting that our connection must be so soon severed, we shall gratefully remember our associations in the past and hope always to be held in pleasant remembrance in the future.

And now, sir, it only remains for me that in the name of the gentlemen composing the clerical force of this assembly, I formally present this beautiful set of silver ware to the Hon. E. D. Coe, sincerely hoping that the friendship here formed between us and our chief may be as lasting as time.

To which Mr. Coe replied, returning thanks for the beautiful gift in a few pleasant remarks.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The select committee to whom was referred

No. 244, S.,

A bill to provide for levying a state tax for the year 1882,

Have considered the same, and have instructed me to report back with a recommendation that it be concurred in.

Your committee, from the imperfect examination they have been able to make, owing to the limited time given them, are unable to materially change the amount of the appropriation provided for in the bill, but your committee beg leave to call attention to a few of the abuses that have crept into our system of disbursing public funds.

1st. There is a lack of business method apparent, in the fact that most of our state officers have no authorized agent of the state with whom to settle their accounts.

The superintendent of public instruction and the superintendent of public property at the expiration of their term of office simply turn over to their successors what state property remain in their hands, taking his receipt therefor, which receipt is not filed anywhere that the public can have access to it, and no basis is formed by which they can be brought to account for property in their hands.

Your committee further believe that there are large expenditures of public moneys now provided for by law or custom, which are unnecessary for the public service, and which swell the amount necessary to be raised by this bill to the amount therein provided for.

Among these expenditures which seem to be in excess of the public wants, we would name the following:

For protecting state lands.....	$6,000 00
For expenses of holding normal school institutes.....	2,000 00

Which, while it may be necessary, should be paid out of the normal school fund.

For board of charities and reforms, for discharging duties that could as well be discharged by the state board of control, the sum of....	$3,000
For the state board of health	4,000
For the state historical society	8,500
For employees and officers of the legislature	25,000
For clerks and employees of the several state departments.....	62,000
For postage and stationery for the use of the state officers.....	10,000
For publishing laws	18,000
For bounty on wild cats and foxes about.....	7,500

While many or all of these drains upon the revenues of the state are necessary to a reasonable amount, your committee believe the amounts paid are grossly in excess of a just compensation for the services rendered or value received.

Therefore, while they cannot dissent from the conclusions of the committee that prepared the bill under consideration, they design to call attention to the growing and increasing tendency of the times to depart from that rule of right, that would lead to the most rigid economy consistent with the public good.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. T. PRICE,
Chairman.

EXECUTIVE COMMUNICATION.

STATE OF WISCONSIN,
Executive Department,
MADISON, March 29, 1882.

To the honorable, the assembly:

I return herewith, without approval, bill No 393, A., entitled "an act to organize the town of Norrie, in Marathon county, and to change the boundaries of other towns in accordance therewith."

The bill is, in my opinion, in plain contravention of subdivision 9 of section 31 of the constitutional amendment adopted in 1871, against special legislation. The section prohibits the legislature from enacting any special or private laws "for incorporating any town or village, or to amend the charter thereof."

That this bill is an attempt, by special act, to incorporate a town, and therefore is in violation of the constitution, I have no doubt. Entertaining this view, I of course cannot approve the bill.

J. M. RUSK,
Governor.

The question being
Shall the bill pass, notwithstanding the objections of the governor?

It was decided in the negative.

The ayes and noes being required, the vote was as follows:

The hour for final adjournment having arrived,

Speaker Gilson addressed the assembly as follows:

Gentlemen of the assembly—The temple whereon we have been the builders is completed, and it is for the world to judge if we have laid the foundation deep and secure, have builded the walls without flaw, and erected over all a dome beneath which honor and wisdom are entrenched supreme. Well or ill done, the past is beyond us, and it only remains for us to rest conscious of our rectitude of purpose hoping, for the favorable consideration of men.

With the memory in my heart of your unnumbered courtesies and unfailing kindnesses toward me; with your recorded and expressive words of confidence in the justice and impartiality of your speaker, mitigating the sorrow of this parting; with the hope that the remembrance of the days we have passed together may live greenly in your hearts, and that the friendships here formed may endure, I now pronounce that solemn word farewell.

I now declare the session of the legislature of 1882 formally closed.
